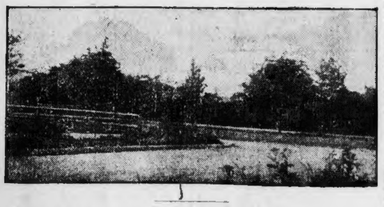
CUBS HAMMER DOVES' PITCHER

SCAPULAR CLEW TO GIRL SLAYER

Here's the Exact Spot Where Key Is Hidden

This is a photograph of the exact spot, looking from one direction, where the $1,000 Key of the AMERICAN'S "Hidden—Not Lost" contest is concealed in the Fenway. If this is not enough, a different picture will be printed to-morrow, showing the EXACT SPOT from another direction.



EASY ENOUGH NOW TO FIND $1,000 KEY

Exact Spot Where It Is Hidden Appears To-day In the American. Now, Can't You Get It?

By "The Money Man."

It seems absurd to suggest such a thing, but "The Money Man" wonders if this search for the $1,000 treasure Key is to lay over into August.

"The Money Man" was "at home" in the AMERICAN office last evening, fully expecting a triumphant caller any moment with the Key. But no caller.

Promise was given yesterday that, if the Key was not found, a picture would be published to-day showing, from one direction, the EXACT SPOT in the Fenway where the Key is concealed. This picture is printed now.

Here is another promise. If the Key is not found to-day, which seems incredible, "The Money Man" will publish another picture to-morrow showing the EXACT SPOT from a different direction.

This process will be repeated from day to day, if necessary, till the Key-Spot has been encircled by the camera.

Remember these things:

A woman can find the Key as well as a man.

Damage no property. Break no laws in the search.

When you find the Key bring it to the office AS QUICKLY AND AS QUIETLY AS POSSIBLE.

Please, good, kind friends, find that Key. The nerves of "The Money Man" are getting worn to a frazzle, waiting for the lucky finder.

BANK TELLER AND $15,000 MISSING

RACINE, Wis., July 30.—There was a sensation in financial circles here to-day when it became known that John Schulte, paying teller of the First National Bank, had disappeared and that the cash in the vault was found to be short $15,000. Schulte left the bank suddenly while Bank Examiner Merton was making the semi-annual inspection.

BIG HUNT FOR TREASURE KEY IN THE FENWAY

The Boston Fenway looks like a fair grounds to-day, with thousands of men, women and children searching for the $1,000 treasure key of the BOSTON AMERICAN'S mystery story, "Hidden—Not Lost."

So steadily are the searchers sticking to the hunt that vendors of food and cooling drinks are reaping quite a harvest selling refreshments to the treasure hunters.

At one point where the crowd gathers a milk wagon has drawn up, with the milkman and his assistant selling cool milk right from the bottle.

Several small boys are selling lemonade, some from improvised stands, others from a big glass jar lugged under the arm, with a glass for the patrons to drink from from.

A fruit vendor is doing a rushing trade in bananas at "Two for 5." Bananas have staying qualities, and a lunch of three good-sized specimens of that popular fruit make meal enough to keep the searcher in the field for a few hours longer.

Many Bring Luncheon.

Some of the searchers, anticipating quite a stay in the Fenway, have been forehanded enough to bring luncheon along. It is not uncommon to see a family party camping out on the scene, with a lunch box open, while a rest is taken for refreshments.

The favorite article used in the search is a cane or a stick, which is used to poke around here and there. One woman had a kitchen spoon.

The search was continued all through last night, the indefatigable hunters snatching a few hours' sleep right in the Fenway. After these periods of rest they would start in again, hunting here and there.

The search is a silent one. People, singly or in little combination parties, do their own sleuthing. Once in a while you will see two or more independent searchers get together and exchange consolations over their lack of success.

But the general principle seems to be everyone for himself, prompted, of course, by the natural desire of every searcher to find the Key for himself or herself alone.

Many Children in Hunt.

The crowd is wholly cosmopolitan. There are people obviously "out of work." There are prosperous looking men and women. Children hunt alongside gray-haired men and women.

Most of the hunters come afoot or by trolley. The car lines running through or near the Fenway are heavily patronized these days and the conductors are asked repeatedly to "let me off where the Key is, please."

The Story of the American's Wonderful Little Want Ad.

An intelligent man wanted a job—He wrote what he wanted, why he wanted it, told who he was and where he lived and said he could show good references, he said it all in 21 words, 15 cents, in the American's Situations Wanted Column; it met the eye of an American Reader, who wanted just such a man. The man got the job and the American Reader got a good man; all satisfied in 24 hours—Wonderful little Want Ad.

Emblem Worn About Neck of Victim May Lead to Detection of Murderer—Body Burned Beyond Recognition.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Forty detectives from Manhattan and Brooklyn began a house to house search in the Williamsburg section of Greater New York to-day in an effort to find the slayer of the young woman who was murdered and her body taken to a lonesome spot near Greenpoint avenue, where it was partly incinerated.

The men, under orders from Acting Captain Madigan, have hit upon several clews, the most important of which is the story of Mrs. Josephine Jimbrosky of No. 197 Dupont avenue, who declared her belief that the girl victim is her sister. She said the young woman in question wore a scapular of the description of that found around the murdered girl's neck, and that she believed the clothing was like that which enveloped the charred body.

According to the sister, the missing woman is Mrs. Mamie Mosakazitch. She and her husband Stanley left the house Monday morning at 5 o'clock, ostensibly to go to Stamford, Ct., where he had secured a place.

"Four hours later," said Mrs. Jimbrowsky, "Stanislaus returned to the house with another man. He wanted to get twenty-five cents to pay an expressman for carrying a bundle across the ferry and when I refused he asked for a photograph of himself and wife which he had left. I gave it to him and he went away. The police sent out a general alarm for the man. Joseph Ruddick, the watchman arrested yesterday, was arraigned in the Manhattan Police Court and held in $500 bail for trial.

Scapular Only Clew.

The police, however, do not believe he knows any more of the murder than he has already told. The officials hope to identify the young woman through the scapular—one of Our Lady of Carmel—a piece of checkered gingham, a section of embroidered silk and a buckhorn handle knife picked up near the body. In their opinion the murder was committed in Manhattan.

The woman was stabbed in the neck, her hands and feet bound with ropes, the body rolled in a mattress soaked with oil, carried to a waste dump in Greenpoint and there burned.

The police to-day acknowledged that the mystery as to who the victim was, when, where and by whom she was killed and for what reason, was as deep as looked the Guldensuppe case when the dismembered body of the unfortunate bath rubber was first discovered with the head missing.

The woman's body was so burned and charred that the features were unrecognizable. Some scraps of clothing are the only clues which the police have.

When the Ruddicks discovered the body it was lying on its face atop a coarse mattress of ordinary ticking filled with excelsior. It was so charred that no white skin was visible until the body was turned over, when it was seen that the chest and a portion of the abdomen had been spared by the flames.

Windpipe Severed.

That portion of the mattress directly underneath the torso of the woman was not burned. Portions of her skirt and of an under garment were intact. It appeared that no shoes, stockings or corset had been upon the body when it was set afire.

The discovery by Coroner's Physician West that the woman's windpipe had been cut showed that a murder had been committed before the plan to dispose of the body had been carried out.

It could be seen, when the police arrived, that the body had been bundled up in the mattress after the feet and hands were tied. The bundle was then carried to the vacant lot, dumped out on the ground and the ropes which had kept it compact and which had bound the hands and feet were cut. Bits of the charred rope were in evidence, and a small boy found nearby among some weeds a large jack-knife with a buckthorn handle and a two-and-a-half inch blade, which had been thrown aside when the ropes were severed.

The police are looking for some women ragpickers and also for a man named Holt who collected small fees from persons who dumped rubbish in the lot.

Dead Several Hours.

Coroner's Physician West performed an autopsy at the Brooklyn morgue in the afternoon and found, from signs of decomposition, that the woman had been dead for several hours before she was incinerated. He said she was about thirty years old, five feet five inches in height, and weighed about 130 pounds. She probably had been a mother, though not recently. There was no sign of an operation, nor were any of the vital organs injured.

The only mark indicating violence was a cut in the upper portion of the trachea or windpipe. This was longitudinal. The woman's throat had not been cut, but this puncture indicated that she had been stabbed in the throat.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, BOSTON, July 30.—It was pretty warm for a double exhibition of the diamond fireworks, but the Cubs and Doves had to go through their advertised act, and there was no help for them.

The race for the pennant was scheduled to be hotter than the weather, and the teams had their minds riveted on the warmest chase.

The reason for playing two games in one day was due to a dispute the two teams had when the Cubs were here back in June and the Doves held them to a seventeen-inning tie, and visions of repeating that performance was on the horizon for a while, but such a long battle was likely to be split up into two games on this occasion.

The World's champions did not make much of a splurge when they reached the city, as President Murphy has cut out some of his advertising schemes such as wearing saffron-colored horseblankets on the hotel conveyances, and all the fans were not aware they were in their midst till seeing by the papers to-day that they had whitewashed the Doves, and the announcement of two games for two bits was simply too alluring to keep away from the park, and the flood of humanity began to flow toward the scene of the bargain entertainment at an early hour.

The Cubs were out to make a cleanup, because they needed the games badly. A double victory meant that they would be a single game behind the Pirates.

The Pirates and Giants were playing weak teams and looked like winners, so the situation for the Cubs was precarious, as they were up against the best club of the three and their chances were not so good except in the instance of their leader. That Chance was the real thing and was letting nothing slip by which would bring his team up.

The directors brought out their best available twirling material, and the Cubs sure had something good in the southpaw, Pfeister and Reulbach, while the Doves depended on Dorner and Tom McCarthy, the youngster who was anxious to retrieve himself for the treatment the Cubs handed him in the Windy City, the Cubs being the one team he had not mastered.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Slagle rolled one to Ritchey and was tossed out. Sheckard got all the best of it on strikes, as Rigler let him walk. Chance got a lucky single, as Ritchey was running to cover the base when he hit to right. Sheckard moved to third on the bingle. On Chance's steal of second Sheckard scored. Tinker flied to Kelley. Sweeney played fast and got Steinfeldt's slow bounder and tossed him out. ONE RUN.

Slagle got under Bates's fly. There was a mixup between Steinfeldt and Tinker and Dahlen's hit went between them. Steinfeldt came across and took Kelly's fly over the box. Dahlen was easily caught stealing, Moran to Tinker. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Dahlen tossed out Howard. Hoffman missed a home run by a few inches over left field fence and then hit to Dahlen, who threw him out. Pat Moran tried to kill the ball, so oDrner passed him. Dahlen could not get to Reulbach's slow one to play it right to McGann, so the pitcher was credited with a hit. Slagle forced Ruelbach, Dahlen to Ritchey. NO RUNS.

McGann hit a long fly to Slagle. Ritchey was in no hurry and got his base on balls. Ritchey stole. Chance got one finger on Browne's fast hit to right and Ritchey moved to third. Sweeney hit to Steinfeldt and Ritchey beat his throw to the plate. Bowerman fouled to Moran. Reulbach tossed out Dorner. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING.

Sheckard hit a hot one at Dorner, the ball shooting out of his reach. Chance forced Sheckard, Dorner to Dahlen. Chance got a lead and stole second. Dahlen fumbled Tinker's hit as Chance was running to third in front of him. Bates lost Steinfeldt's fly in the sun and Chance scored. Howard hit to Dahlen, who threw too late to cach Tinker, who kep on he plae. Bowerman muffed Sweeney's throw and Steinfeldt scored, while Howard went to third. Howard scored on Hofman's out, Sweeney to McGann. Moran was hit and walked. Reulbach forced Moran, Dahlen to Ritchey. FOUR RUNS.

Bates flied to Slagle. Dahlen flied to Sheckard. Kelley fanned. NO RUNS.

Independence Party Loses No Time in Opening the Campaign.

HEARST TO LEAD BATTLE FOR HISGEN AND GRAVES

Chosen by the National Committee to Manage Campaign for New Party Ticket.

Sheppard of Kansas, Traitor to the Cause, Ruled Out of the National Committee.

By James F. Dorrance.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The National Committee of the Independence party had but one choice for manager of the campaign of Thomas L. Hisgen and John Temple Graves. William Randolph Hearst was the man decided on and his election was by acclamation.

Once more did this newest of parties throw down the gauntlet of contrast to the two old organizations. The Republicans were fighting among themselves for weeks before they finally, on Roosevelt's orders, settled on Chairman Hitchcock.

The Democrats did not know where to look for a chairman. When Norman E. Mack finally agreed to shoulder the responsibility of Mr. Bryan's third losing race to the White House the committee was held up for hours until the members could smooth the ruffled feelings of Conners and Murphy, both of whom hate the millionaire Buffalo newspaper publisher like poison.

Two Able Assistants.

The national committee of the Independence party realizes that Mr. Hearst will be exceedingly busy during the campaign, as he is to "round the circle" for the Hisgen-Graves ticket. For that reason they gave him two able assistants in C. F. S. Neal of Indiana and ex-Congressman M. W. Howard of Alabama.

Charles A. Walsh was re-elected national secretary, and the naming of the executive committee was left to Chairman Hearst.

Not the least interesting act of the national committee was the ruling out of John J. Sheppard of Fort Scott, Kan. No action could be taken on the "Gilroy" tactics shown by Judge Seabury of New York and E. Gerry Brown of Massachusetts, as neither was a member of the national committee.

Sheppard of Kansas, who tried to place the name of William Jennings Bryan in nomination at the convention, was a member of the committee and could be properly dealt with. There was as little ceremony about putting Sheppard out of the national committee as there was about shutting him out of Orchestra Hall the moment he admitted that he hoped to nominate a man who was not a member of the Independence party.

The brand of "traitor" was burned in Sheppard's forehead on formal motion. His name was stricken from the roll. In his place Judge Gene S. Waterbury of Emporia, Kansas, was elected. It was Judge Waterbury who took the platform "to put his State right," and declared that no other member of the Kansas delegation had any sympathy with Mr. Bryan or the Democratic platform.

Bryan Men Ignore Their Tools.

The national committee took no official notice of Seabury or Brown. Both are outcasts in Chicago, and, until they left, wandered in lonely solitude about the hotels. The Bryan managers who persuaded them to desert the cause of independence have no longer any use for them. They failed to "deliver the goods," which is something that men like Roger Sullivan and Tom Taggart cannot forgive. That both men risked their political future in the Bryan cause counts for nothing. They are men without the party so far as practical politics goes.

The AMERICAN, it developed to-day has done Judge Seabury one slight injustice. It was told that the reason the young man, who for the next thirteen years will sit on a Supreme Court bench in New York, wear the black robes and decide on questions of law, even on the life and death of those who are so seriously accused, desired to be Governor of New York. It seemed a logical explanation of his sudden turning frim the party which raised him from a moderate law practice and assured him practically a quarter of a million dollars in salary from the county of New York.

The injustice which the AMERICAN did Judge Seabury is this: He was looking higher than the executive mansion at Albany.

Seeks a Great Reward.

No less a place than an appointment to the Supreme Court of the United States is the ambition of the New York judge, whose most intimate friends will no longer speak to. Judge Seabury did not tell me that this was his ambition. One of his most intimate friends, however, with the idea of "correcting the impression" that the judge wanted to be Governor of the Empire State did so declare and gave sufficient proof.

John J. Sheppard, the most sensational traitor of the three, whom the new party found it necessary to cast out, kept under cover to-day. He was protected from physical violence at the convention last night by the strenuous efforts of the leaders of tht new party.

Had he appeared to-day there could have been no protection from certain incensed fellow delegates from Kansas except his own courage, and Sheppard showed by his craven attitude on the platform that he is not the sort of man to meet the issues of life in that way. His method is the underground, and at stabbing a man in the back in the dark he would possibly make a record.

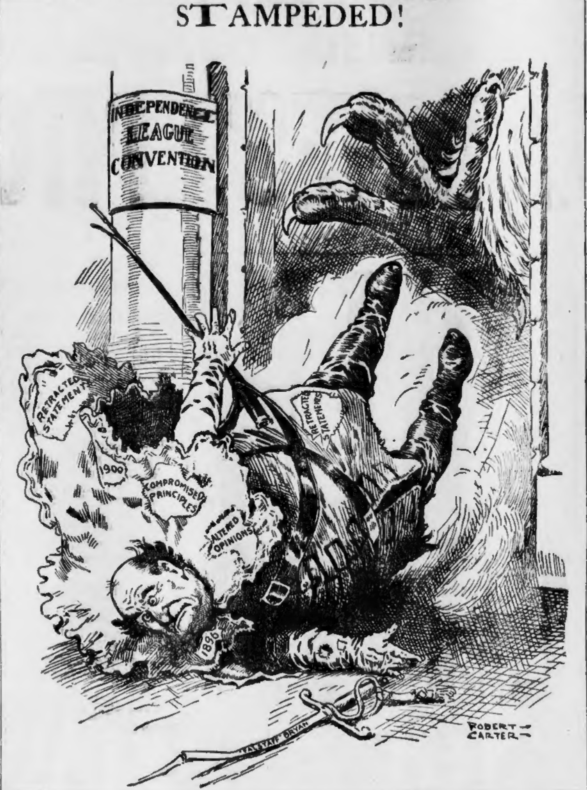
Sheppard Makes a Statement.

From his place of concealment Mr. Sheppard managed to get word through Willis Abbot, Mr. Bryan's personal press agent, to the Democratic newspapers in Chicago. He issued a long statement, the first paragraph of which reads:

"It was a terrible scene, but there was nothing for me to do but to follow the men who were dragging me. Policemen saved me when I reached the rear of the hall, and but for them there is no telling what would have happened. The Hearst sluggers were there on every hand, and they were to see that I got it."

Mr. Sheppard then charged that the first page of the platform was switched in between the committee room at the Auditorium Hotel and the Orchestra Hall. Mr. Sheppard at last realizes that he was asleep when the preamble in which it was declared that no outside party man could have the nomination was passed.

The platform, after it had been typewritten and finally passed by the full committee on resolutions, was carried to the convention hall by Clarence J. Shearn, who read it to the convention. There was no substitution, and the best evidence that there was none is that Mr. Sheppard, he of the traitor brand, is the only man who questioned a word of it.



STAMPEDED!

ROUSING WELCOME FOR HISGEN IN SPRINGFIELD

WEST SPRINGFIELD, July 30.—The return of Thomas L. Hisgen, candidate of the Independence party for President, to his home in West Springfield early this evening will be marked by one of the greatest demonstrations this town has seen for years. Republicans, Democrats and Independence Leaguers have joined to give Mr. Hisgen and Mrs. Hisgen a royal welcome, and party lines have been cast aside altogether.

Town officials who have been staunch Republicans or Democrats for years will ride in the carriages, and the majority of them will cast their votes for Hisgen on election day. With one accord, they say that Mr. Hisgen has brought honor to West Springfield throughout the country and now they will show their gratitude by working for him at the polls.

Rally Will Be Non-Partisan.

The reception, parade and rally is being arranged by E. T. Kavanaugh and S. J. Griffin, and will be non-partisan in every way. Word has been received that Mr. Hisgen will reach Springfield at 5 o'clock, together with the members of the Massachusetts delegation. From 4:30 to 5 o'clock the Second Regiment Band will give a concert at the Union station, and as Mr. Hisgen steps from the train he will be greeted with rousing cheers.

Ex-Representative Frank P. Sargeant will make a brief address of congratulation in behalf of the town of West Springfield, while Miss Griffin will present to Mrs. Hisgen a handsome bouquet of flowers, also in behalf of the town.

Mr. Hisgen and the members of the Massachusetts delegation, who stop off here, will be escorted to carriages, and, headed by the band, will pass through Main street to the Highland Hotel, where dinner will be served. About twenty-five guests will ride in carriages.

Following the dinner Mr. Hisgen and the guests will again enter the carriages, and the parade will continue down Main street around Court square and back to Bridge street, then across the bridge to West Springfield.

A Display of Fireworks.

When this town is reached there will be fireworks all along the line of march. The procession will pass Mr. Hisgen's house on George street and then continue to the Town Hall, where a rousing rally will be held, it being the intention to have Mr. Hisgen open the campaign in his own town. An effort is being made to have Mr. Hearst accompany Mr. Hisgen here and speak at the rally.

The guests, who will be in carriages, follow:

Town Clerk R. H. Sibley, Selectmen F. O. Scott, C. O. Palmer and J. J. Lysaght, Ex-Representative F. P. Sargent, Harrison Loomis, chairman of the Board of Assessors; Representative W. F. Cook, Dr. E. C. Syrett, A. A. Sibley, C. M. Woodward, Dr. H. A. Downey, S. A. Bragg, School Committeeman W. H. Bagg, George A. Hill, L. A. Hubbard, chairman of the Republican town committee; George D. Cummings, George C. Duffy, Luke Kavanaugh, Chief of Police John J. Sweeney, Fire Chief E. B. Jones, Dr. P. J. Flagg, chairman of the Board of Health; M. F. Delaney, H. E. Ingraham, P. J. Welch, Water Commissioners George H. Norris and J. H. Healey, Louis F. Ivers and J. D. Riley.

BIG VOTE FOR THE NEW PARTY IS PREDICTED

CHICAGO, July 30.—Independence party leaders, representing sections of the country from coast to coast, expressed great enthusiasm to-day over the ticket and platform of the new party and predicted that Hisgen and Graves would poll a tremendous vote. The following statements were obtained by the AMERICAN:

CHARLES E. GEHRING, chairman of New York delegation—It was a great convention. It is a great ticket and the platform could not be surpassed. We are going home to do the tallest hustling we know how for Hisgen and Graves, and that means that we shall poll a remarkably large vote.

MELVIN G. PALLISER of New York: "We are going back home much elated over the first national convention of the Independence party, its nominees and its platform. I predict a most hearty reception for the ticket and the principles aid down, not only in New York, but throughout the country. Look for a record-breaking vote in the Empire State. It is sure to come, and then the two tottering old machines will finally be completely demolished."

CHARLES A. WALSH, secretary of Independence party national committee—"No party has been born more auspiciously than the Independence party. It is essentially a people's party—the plain people's party—and will increase in influence and power as the years come. The party is most fortunate in its selection of nominees and platform. Both appeal to the sober sense of all those who oppose machine-ridden organizations and candidates. I predict that the party, at the first election since its establishment, will poll at least two million votes, or twice the number cast for Fremont on the inception of the Republican party in 1856. With these as a nucleus we shall be able to carry the country ultimately."

CHARLES S. NEAL, vice-chairman of the national committee and president of the Endowment Bank, Knights of Pythias, Indiana—"The ticket is a good one and the platform splendid. We shall make a strong fight for them both in Indiana. Reports I have received show great confidence that the Independence Party vote in the Hoosier State will surprise the politicians of both the old parties. Indiana is composed largely of independents. We shall put a full State ticket in the field and we shall poll a very large vote for it. We expect to eect many Congressmen and members of the Legislature."

HISGEN CHEERED BY CHICAGO ON HOMEWARD TRIP

Clement L. Pollock.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 30.—Whirling homeward with the new party candidate for President, Thomas L. Hisgen of Springfield, aboard the Michigan Central Limited, reached this city shortly before midnight last night. On board a special Pullman with Mr. Hisgen and his wife were a score of New England delegates. It was a happy, jubilant party, and not one had sought slumber when a brief stop was made here.

After a day spent in consultation with members of the National Committee and in receiving the congratulations of delegates who had not yet fled the torrid city, Mr. Hisgen boarded the train and left Chicago at 5 o'clock. As it left the depot with its distinguished passenger three cheers rang out from lusty-lunged but hoarse-voiced friends of the candidate.

Mr. Hisgen denied himself to interviewers, stating that he would make his first political statement when he was officially notified of his nomination. Word reached Mr. and Mrs. Hisgen as they were leaving Chicago that some of their friends were preparing a home-coming welcome, but the details were not communicated to them.

It is expected that Springfield will show appropriately her appreciation of the honor Mr. Hisgen has brought to that beautiful city. The demonstration will be of a non-political nature. There will be music and Mr. Hisgen will thank his neighbors briefly for their manifestations of friendship.

Some of the New England delegates who will stop off at Springfield and help in the little home-welcoming celebration are Benjamin York of Damariscotta, Maine; William N. Osgood of Boston, George S. Whitbeck of Northampton, William Nice of Newburyport, Washington A. Coles, John M. Pease and John A. Kenney of Boston; Herbert E. Bryant of Plymouth, Wm. A. Pierson of Hudson, Charles E. Butterworth of Haverhill, Dr. Charles W. Copeland of Fall River; Grenville MacFarland of Cambridge; Roscoe T. Harden of Portsmouth, N. H.; Arion Baker of Bingham, Me.; Park Mitchell of Manchester, N. H.; Richard J. Talbot of Springfield and C. O. Power of Boston.

"That was the most genuine convention of the people that has been in this country in most many years," declared Mr. Osgood of the National Committee.

"I believe that the convention works an epoch in our history. The enthusiasm shown over the platform indicated that the delegates were there because of their principles, and where the principles were so strongly presented they naturally were delighted. It was a great convention, but as for the weather, give me Boston."

Mrs. Thomas L. Hisgen declared that she had the most delightful trip of her life. "But I am anxious to get home and see my children," she added. "I am proud of my husband and appreciate the great and unexpected honor that has come to us.

"The ladies of Chicago, as well as Mrs. Hearst and others who were there on account of the convention, were most kind. I enjoyed every minute of my stay in the big city. I shall not do any campaigning, but remain at home and look after the children."

OPEN FIGHT TO WREST ILLINOIS FROM OLD PARTY MACHINES

CHICAGO, July 30.—The Independence party of Illinois in convention to-day erected a towering platform, placed upon it a body of sterling candidates and began the fight to wrest the State from the clutch of the Senate combine, the Republican machine and its Democratic auxiliary.

The following ticket was nominated:

For Governor—George Washington McCaskrin, Rock Island.

For Lieutenant-Governor—E. C. Beach, Paxton.

For Secretary of State—Fred Greer, Chicago.

For State Auditor—F. T. Lister, Springfield.

For State Treasurer—Louis E. Hamburg, Chicago.

For Attorney-General—Anderson B. Garrett, East St. Louis.

For clerk of the Supreme Court—James F. Cronin, Chicago.

For University of Illinois trustees—Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkpatrick, Chicago; Mrs. Winifred Codley, Juliet; Dr. Willis C. Stone, Chicago.

For United States Senator—Dr. Howard S. Taylor, Chicago (indorsed by resolution).

The candidates are fighters—young men, most of them, and honest men, all of them. The ticket is a roster of the men who have been foremost in the case of the Independence party in Illinois.

Among the most striking doctrines for the State as advocated in the platform upon which this new party will fight to carry the State is a plank holding forth to women the same suffrage privileges as the men enjoy.

Another plank resuscitates municipal ownership for Chicago, which was claimed as a provision of the traction ordinances, but which has never materialized from that corporation-dictated instrument. The plank demands the street car lines be taken over as soon as existing franchises permit.

Smile of Fat Man Sadder Than Tears

Beneath a Show of Joy Lies the Gloomy Vision of the Grim Reaper.

We have learned to know that the adage "Laugh and grow fat" is just as untrue as the early-to-bed and early-to-rise fib. It does not usually make a man healthy, wealthy and wise, at least not in our day.

And so we are beginning to realize that fat is a very dangerous disease and not a state of giggling happiness.

Many fat people haw-haw in public, and wear their thumbs in their vest arm-pits just as a safety valve to their misery, and to make us believe that their smiles are genuine.

Some are really jolly, but not because they are fat. To most of the jolly ones as well as to the others, every coming and going of their breath is a puff of misery, and their smiles are sadder than the tears of childhood.

Most fat people will not acknowledge it, but deep down in their hearts they know this is true. They know that smiles avail not, and that the same heart which tries to be happy, that same moment is being clutched by death-fat, slowly but surely, to be finally smothered and made silent forever. Some do not know what is going to happen, but they feel that something might. They may well be apprehensive.

Rengo as a reducer of fat and a cure of fat disease is a Godsend to every fat man and woman in the world. It is the new method, the only safe method. Rengo reduces you, while at the same time making you feel better and stronger.

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid, by The Rengo Co., 3312 Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail, if you write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores.

Bride of Alleged Defaulter Declares She'll Defend Him

Mrs. Harvey T. Wells, sketched to-day by Boston American staff artist.

OV. PROUTY'S FAST AUTO TRIP COST $10

Lieutenant-Governor George H. Prouty of ermont appeared in the Chelsea Police t this morning before Judge Cutler ged with overspeeding on the Revere h reservation this morning. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10. About 8:30 this morning Lieutenant-Governor Prouty, with a party of friends on their way to New Hampshire, entered the Revere Beach reservation at a speed stated to be about thirty-five miles an hour. Park Patrol Girard stopped the party near Revere street, turned the auto around and took it to the park police station, where Lieutenant-Governor Prouty was booked. Girard then accompanied the party to the Chelsea Courthouse, and after a delay of about two hours Governor Prouty and party once more were on the way to New Hampshire.

FOUR MILKMEN FINED.

Four Charlestown milk dealers were today fined $50 each for having in their possession milk that had been adulterated with water. All four dealers appealed and were held in $200. They were Joseph Friedman, Harris Mandig, John J. Corcoran and Michael B. Corcoran.

BRIDE SWEARS BY CLERK HELD AS EMBEZZLER

Had Long Guarded Secret; Pathetically Tells of Flight from Justice.

"DID IT FOR ME," SHE CRIES

"If my husband stole $6,000 he did it for my sake; he is nothing but a boy. I will work hard and spend every cent I earn in his behalf, and if he must go to prison he will have something to start life with again when he is free. We are both relieved that all our worry, trying to escape detection, is over."

With this courageous, but pathetic declaration, uttered between half suppressed sobs, the pretty little wife of Harvey T. Wells, who is under arrest in Boston for bank embezzlement, began an effort today to save the youth with whom she eloped only ten months ago.

"He confessed to me five months after our marriage; it broke my heart, but what could I do?" she exclaimed. "He was good to me. He said he took the money so as to be with me, and I'm going to stick to him until he is free again. Then we will settle down in a little home under our own name and we will be able to face the world, which we have been dodging, hounded with fear, ever since my husband confessed."

Hopefulness of Youth.

The story of young Wells and his girl wife is extremely pathetic. She told it all frankly, with tears in her big wistful blue eyes, to-day at Police Headquarters, whither she went with delicacies for the lad to bid him good-bye before he is taken late this afternoon to Kenosha., Wis., where he must answer to the relentless law.

She was optimistic, with the hopefulness of youth. They met in Chicago, where she, Florence E. Winniston, the daughter of a wealthy retired trader of Greenwich, Eng., scarcely nineteen years old, was visiting relatives. This was only last Summer.

Wells was a dashing youth of twenty, who seemed to be wealthy, and who was afraid to tell her that he was obliged to live on the meagre salary of a bank's head bookkeeper. This was his fatal mistake, because the young girl would have wed him if he had been a pauper.

Theft, Then Elopement.

He embezzled the bank's funds to keep up an appearance; they eloped. Let the girl bride tell her own pathetic story of what followed. Here it is in her own words:

"I was introduced to my husband by his brother, who is employed in a band at Chicago while I was visiting there last Summer. We became greatly attached to each other, and when he asked me to mary him I consented, for I was very much in love. When I left Chicago to return to my home in Greenwich, Harvey came with me to New York and we were married the day we reached there, at Trinity Church. The following day I sailed on the Cedric for England.

"We met again at Liverpool the latter part of October.

"When we decided to return to America, Harvey suggested that we come by way of Canada. As it was in January, and that is a dangerous course at that period of the year, I asked him why he wanted to make the return passage on that line.

"He replied because he wanted to take in Canada. One day, when we were stopping in Montreal, he confided to me the reason he could not take me to his home.

"It broke my heart, but there was no help for it then. We talked it over, and agreed that we would try to make the loss good and try to live it down. He had always been so good to me, that I couldn't desert him and I am going to stick by him and see him out of this trouble.

Under Assumed Name.

"We came to Cambridge, where my husband went under the name of Winniston, my maiden name. It was hard, frightfully hard, to live like that—two young people, with all our life before us and both of us intending to be honest and good, hiding our shame from the eyes of the law.

"We were hounded all the time by the fear of detection from last February until the officers came yesterday. We looked on everybody with suspicion.

"But my husband went to work and lived honestly, going about freely. On two or three occasions we could scarcely bear it, and my husband proposed to go back and give himself up. He refrained for fear of leaving me alone. When he confessed he told me that he had been stealing for some time before our marriage, and that he took $3,000 three weeks after that event and followed me to England.

Told Story of Wealth.

"It was not a blow to find that my husband was not wealthy. The blow was to hear that he had stolen, and for my sake, too. He said he did it simply because he had told me he was wealthy, and he didn't want to lose me or appear not to have money. Poor boy; he should have known differently, but he is only a youth, and the bank officers made a mistake in giving such a young man so responsible a position.

"Now we both feel better that it is all over. I don't care if he did steal $6,000; he has been good to me and I will stick by him. His family is well-to-do, and I am confident they will make restitution and my husband will be freed."

The bank's detectives traced Wells and his bride all over Europe, and finally to No. 59 Appleton street, Cambridge, where the bride had pawned her jewelry to set up housekeeping, and the two were struggling to pay back the bank.

This afternoon Wells goes back to Kenosha without requisition and his bride will remain in Cambridge.

NEW STORES FOR DRUG FIRM

Two large drug stores of Lewis & Company, one on Washington street at Adams square and another at the junction of Merrimac and Portland streets, have been purchased by the Riker-Jaynes Company, which already operates a large chain of stores in Boston and other cities.

The purchasers have already taken possession, and extensive improvements are to be made in both the new stores.

The Jaynes stores in Boston were purchased a little more than a year ago by the William B. Riker & Son Company of New York, which conducts nine stores in that city, and the Lewis purchase, following so closely upon that, is indicative of the advances made by the company in the local field.

Mr. Lewis is to retire from business. The Riker Company has been established sixty-two years and the Jaynes Company twenty-five years. Both have been foremost in the drug field. Further progress and expansion of the new company is expected.

ONE STATION FOR BEVERLY.

The Board of Railroad Commissioners has decided that the present single station is enough for a community of the size of Beverly. A petition had been brought by the Mayor of Beverly, in behalf of the Board of Aldermen, for the construction of another station on the easterly side of the Boston & Maine tracks at Beverly.

POLICE CIRCLE WOODS IN HUNT FOR BANDITS

CORDON THROWN ABOUT BUSSEY DISTRICT IN HOPE OF TRAPPING SUSPECTS.

That the two bandit companions of Edmund Gutman, who was shot to death in the police battle in the Forest Hills cemetery, are hiding in the Bussey Woods is the belief of the Boston police.

Leontina Mauren, styled the "queen of the bandits," is with them, and bringing the fugitives food by night and aiding in their concealment in the thick underbrush by day, the police likewise declare.

Leontina Mauren, called the "bandit queen," is the key to the situation. If they can find her the police declare they can find out who the Letts were who were with Edmund Gutman when he was shot in Winterson & McManus's saloon in Jamaica Plain.

SEARCH LETT COLONY

All the efforts of the police are being centred in the hunt for [illegible] and her sister, Elizabeth. They live among the families of the Letts of Roxbury Crossing or Jamaica Plain. Inspectors are hunting everywhere for the women.

A cordon of police guards virtually surround the Bussey woods.

Ever since it became certain the Letts [illegible] saloon of Winterson & McManus [illegible] ran amuck [illegible] those acquainted [illegible] habits [illegible] people have [illegible] police to confine their search [illegible].

Woman Gives Point

That Leontina Mauren and her sister Elizabeth, as well as [illegible] leader of the Woburn "shop" [illegible] killing last Winter, Peter [illegible] and Swar are all hiding in the woods, was a clew furnished them by two Lithuanian women whose names are carefully concealed.

The two women, with a third woman companion, were seen by the informants of the police entering the dense Bussey Woods, where scores of persons, especially those well acquainted with wood craft could hide in safety for days.

Leontina Mauren carried a leather bag and the other women paper packages, and it appeared that they were carrying provisions to some persons in the forest.

The police believe that had the Letts hid in the woods the day of the fight, just one week ago, they could not have escaped since, as every avenue leading away from West Roxbury and that whole section of country has been closely policed. Citizens have been acting in conjunction with the officers and the police say the Letts could not have escaped without being seen by someone.

"We're working day and night to find these women and men," said Captain George H. Westcott of Station 13, who is conducting the hunt. "I am confident that we will find them yet.

Many Families Questioned.

"We are running everything down, no matter what it looks like. I am positive neither the yeggs nor the women have got away from us and that we'll get them soon."

Captain Westcott has several police headquarters inspectors at work on the case. All of the Lett families are being questioned and the clew of the two women who first told the captain of the probable whereabouts of Leontina Mauren and her sister is being worked as the most promising development yet.

Francesco Sperduto, of No. 539 High street, Dedham, was yesterday discharged in the Jamaica Plain District Court from all complicity in the operations of the desperadoes, and was to-day fined $30 in the Dedham District Court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. His friends are now trying to raise the money to pay the fine.

FRIGHTFUL AUTO CRASH KILLS LAUTERBACH, JR.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Fred L. Lauterbach, son of Edward Lauterbach, a lawyer of international fame, was instantly killed early to-day in an automobile accident not far from the town of Westchester. His two cousins, William Cann, a broker of No. [illegible] West Fifty-fifth street, and Edwin Cann, a real estate broker, of No. 2469 Broadway, had a narrow escape from death.

The young men had dined and were returning from a long spin through Westchester county. Lauterbach, who, with his father, has been a devotee of fast motoring and whose car has been halted on numerous occasions for fast running, was at the wheel. He [illegible] a rough stretch of road to short-cut to the city, as the party had been out [illegible] hours and his friends were anxious to return home. The car was going, according to the police of Westchester, at sixty miles an hour when the party approached the Williams bridge road.

At the approach to a new bridge, which is being erected over the N. Y., N. H. & H. tracks, a temporary structure spans the railroad. On each side is a heavy wooden guard rail, which narrows the approach to the temporary bridge to fifteen feet. The incline is at an angle of nearly forty-five degrees.

In speeding south and coming close to this rail, the big sixty horsepower touring car struck a string piece. The fore right wheel broke, sending the car with terrific force against the six-inch top guard rail. A long section of the heavy beam tore away the mudguard, crushing the steering wheel, and struck young Lauterbach on the left side. It crushed his body from rib to knee and carried the crushed mass through the back of the seat into the tonneau.

ARNOLD PRINT MAY PAY ALL

A fifty per cent. payment on all outstanding claims against the Arnold Print Works, of North Adams, and its subsidiary concerns, the Williamstown Manufacturing Company, the North Pownal Manufacturing Company and Galloup & Hogton, is promised in the reorganization plans filed by the receivers in the United States Circuit Court to-day.

The plans call for a fifty per cent. payment in cash at once and the balance to be taken care of in six per cent. five-year mortgage bonds to be secured by the issuance of $8,500,000 in bonds of the reorganized company.

GARGAN HAS PNEUMONIA

BERLIN, July 30.—Thomas F. Gargan of Boston, who was operated on last week for a disorder of the stomach, has developed pneumonia.

His recovery depends entirely upon the strength of his constitution.

BOAT THOUGHT LOST SAFE.

NEWBURYPORT, July 30.—Schooner yacht Lew Belle of Lynn, Captain Elijah Durland, which had been reported missing, is at anchor off the American Yacht Club house to-day.

Captain Durland says they were delayed by light winds and fogs at various points along the coast.

BIG WELCOME FOR CUMMINGS

When National President Cummings of the Ancient Order of Hibernians returns to Boston to-morrow evening, citizens of Dorchester and members of the Hibernian divisions of that district plan to meet him at Harrison Square Station with a band and escort him through the streets to his home at Neponset. The chairman of the general committee is Peter Fallon, president of Division 26, and the reception committee is headed by Daniel T. O'Connell, former president of Division 76.

Mr. Cummings is expected to arrive at Harrison square at 7:10. The route will be through Clayton and Freeport streets to Dorchester avenue, to Adams street, thence to Neponset.

The national president will be escorted to Woods Hall, where addresses will be made. The address of welcome will be made by Hon. John H. H. McNamee, formerly of Cambridge, now a resident of Dorchester. There will also be an overflow meeting at Kelleher's Hall.

GIRL KILLED BY LIGHTNING FREAK

KINEO, Me., July 30.—Miss Gertrude Gilbert, aged nineteen years, daughter of T. William Gilbert, proprietor of West Outlet Camps, was struck and instantly killed by lightning in a shower which passed low and lay down on a couch. The bolt over the camps late to-day.

When the storm came up the young woman went into the shelter of a bungalow which struck her left no mark in any part of the bungalow. An aunt, Miss Alice Coombs, sat three feet away at the time and felt no effects of the lightning.

A Good Electric Idea

Scientific Lighting

Everybody in the Electrical Business Knows the Importance of Illuminating Engineering

A magazine is published devoted entirely to this subject.

The Society of Illuminating Engineers is a flourishing organization with over 1000 members. The President of this organization is in Europe for us to find what they are doing there on this important subject of Scientific Lighting.

We are ahead of Europe on this side, but we don't know it all.

Boston should have the benefit of everything that is done for getting more useful light out of every lamp burned.

Either thing our Patrons want—More Light or Less Cost. We are satisfied if they are pleased. Pleasing them means new customers.

Our policy has resulted in the biggest Electric City in America. But with the loss of revenue due to lower prices (reduced 20% to 12 cents) we propose to get more new customers now than ever. The best way is to please the old ones first.

The new department will be ready for business in September, by which time our expert will be back from Europe.

If you are a customer, or expect to be, get in your application for inspection and advice now. The Department is exclusively for Edison Light patrons.

MAYOR DENIES VACATION PAY TO NEW MEN

Orders for Extension of "L" Street Bath House Also Vetoed.

ECONOMY MOVE, HE SAYS

Mayor Hibbard to-day returned to the City Council several orders with his veto attached, providing for two weeks' vacation without loss of pay to all employes of the city who have not been in the employ of the city six months, holidays on legal holidays and half holidays on Saturday afternoons. The Mayor also vetoed the order allowing the members of the United Spanish War Veterans' Association to be absent without loss of pay on September 1, 2 and 3, the dates set for the National Convention in Boston, and an order appropriating $5,000 for the extension of the L street bath house.

In vetoing the last order the Mayor gave as his reason: "The bath trustees are in a position to take up the work this year. The delay will assure a more satisfactory expenditure later."

In giving his reasons for his veto of the several orders relative to vacations and holidays, the Mayor said: "The enactment of these orders means the free gift of several thousands of the tax-payers' money to a special body of citizens who are well employed under attractive conditions.

"The power to grant vacations should be used sparingly and hardly at all until a complete and harmonious system has been worked out that will affect all alike."

HARRIMAN NOW RULING HAND OVER BILLIONS

NEW YORK, July 30.—The report that George J. Gould had joined forces with E. H. Harriman, the latter becoming the controlling chief in the long coveted Gould railroad properties in the West, was received with intense satisfaction in Wall Street.

It was the leading topic in banking and brokerage offices, and the Harriman-Gould stocks were watched with keen interest.

Mr. Harriman will leave New York to-morrow for a Western trip of inspection over the Gould railroad and will be gone for a month. He was found in his offices at No. 120 Broadway in an animated mood.

"Do you wish to confirm the report of your alliance with George Gould?" was asked by a reporter for the AMERICAN.

"I cannot talk on such subjects," he said. "But I am learning a whole lot through the newspapers. I am much too busy to discuss this current talk; but things are progressing.

"Railroad men are learning to look ahead a little. I am going out West, and am so occupied to-day that I haven't time to notice how warm it is."

Mr. Harriman was asked whether his remark that railroad interests were "learning to look ahead a little" had a political significance, applying to adverse railroad legislation; but he declined to amplify his words, only adding:

"Some day my meaning will doubtless be made quite clear."

Conferences held yesterday by the parties to the new Gould-Harriman alliance and their bankers apparently failed to result in any definite agreement regarding the $8,000,000 of Wheeling & Lake Erie notes which will mature to-morrow.

There is a possibility that default may be made on them as a technical matter, for the purpose of releasing the Wheeling & Lake Erie stock, which is deposited as collateral. The notes are also guaranteed by the Wabash, and the release of the Wheeling stock would put that security into the Wabash treasury and permit a definite division of control with the Erie, as already planned.

GIRL RISKS LIFE IN FLAMES TO SAVE WOMAN

At the risk of her own life, Miss Sadie Schrank dragged Mrs. Joseph Pearlswig, of No. 307 Cross street, Malden, from a burning room, extinguished the flames which were rapidly devouring her clothing and carried her to the street. Mrs. Pearlswig is at the hospital and the physicians say she has a chance for recovery.

Mrs. Pearlswig started a fire in her gas stove and the wind blew the flames against a lace curtain. While she was attempting to extinguish the fire Mrs. Pearlswig's clothing caught fire. After fighting in vain to put out the fire in her clothes she collapsed and sank to the floor. Miss Schrank saw the smoke from the windows and heard Mrs. Pearlswig moan. She rushed into the room and carried her to the street where an ambulance rushed her to the hospital.

LOCKWOOD GETS REPAIR WORK

Bids were opened to-day in the superintendent of streets' office at City Hall for repairs on pumping engines Nos. 3 and 4 at Calf Pasture Pumping Station. The Lockwood Company was the lowest bidder with a figure of $23,750. Other bidders were the Atlantic Works, $24,532, and the Bertelson & Peterson Engine Company, $39,500. The Lockwood Company agrees to complete the work in four months. The other companies asked for longer time.

FINED FOR SALES OF CIGARETTES

Three women, all storekeepers in Everett, were to-day fined $15 each by Judge Bruce in the Malden District Court for selling cigarettes to minors. The women are: Ida Orway of No. 10 Harvard street, Everett; Ethel Brotman of No. 195 Chelsea street, Everett, and Olga Goldberg of No. 265 Ferry street, Everett.

Newsboys in Wholesale Dry Goods District Win American Money Prizes

Reading from top to bottom the boys are Moses Cohen, Harry Morienberg, Jacob Takofsky.

In the wholesale dry goods district the BOSTON AMERICAN camera man found hustling newsboys keen and alert, and all displaying the BOSTON AMERICAN. Three of these boys were taken by the camera man, and to-day they will each receive a dollar bill.

At the corner of Bedford street the camera man found Moses Cohen giving his whole attention to selling AMERICANS. Moses is fourteen years old, and has been selling papers for a long time. He lives at No. 146 Chambers street.

Harry Morienberg was selling AMERICANS on Summer street. He was so busy that he didn't even know that his picture was being taken, or that to-day he could get a dollar. He is twelve years old, and lives at No. 47 Joy street.

The third "newsie" to be rewarded for his energy and business-like way of displaying the AMERICAN is Jacob Takofsky. Jacob sells AMERICANS on Kingston street. Yesterday noon during the lunch hour his little legs flashed all over the street while he sold latest editions. He is twelve years old, and lives at No. 50 Salem street.

BOSTON MAN WINS PRIZE IN TURNFEST

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, July 30.—In the great five serial Turners' contest the following Americans have received prizes: John W. Grieb, Philadelphia; George Meister, Pittsburg; Louis Schroeder, Brooklyn; Gustave Kern, North St. Louis; Max Hess, Philadelphia; Fred Engelhardt, Brooklyn; Hermann Ringwald, South St. Louis; William Lemcke, Rochester, N. Y.; T. Kassel, Philadelphia; Leopold Fisher, Brooklyn. The highest number of points in this event was gained by a Swiss Turner by the name of Wagner.

In the six-serial event the following American turners were among the winners: William Lemcke, Rochester (winner of the Hearst trophy); William Andeldinger, St. Louis; John Bissinger, New York; Max Hess, Philadelphia; Gustav Kern, North St. Louis; Hugo B. Seikel, Boston; Roy Moore, New York.

William Lemcke of Rochester, N. Y., having the highest number of points in both contests of all the American winners, was awarded the Hearst prize, a beautiful silver loving cup, a rare piece of the silversmith's art. It had been sent from New York to Frankfort, where it was on exhibition and greatly admired.

ARREST DOCTOR AFTER PROBING DEATH OF GIRL

FITCHBURG, July 30.—After investigating the death of Alma Beaulieu, aged twenty, who died at the Burbank Hospital, July 18, State Detectives Robert Molt and Frederick Flynn of Lawrence and Inspector Flaherty of this city arrested Dr. Henry B. Boynton of West Townsend on the charge of causing her death by an illegal operation, and he was held in $1,000 bail for his appearance in court at Ayer to-day.

JORDAN NEW HEAD OF N. E. CONSERVATORY

At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the New England Conservatory of Music, Eben D. Jordan was elected President of the Board. Mr. Jordan as vice-president of the board has been most active in the promotion of the many changes which have made possible the Conservatory's rapid strides in the last few years. Through his contributions and interest, the new building on Huntington avenue was built, and its fine concert hall was the gift of Mr. Jordan, and bears his name.

TAX RATE FOR BOSTON MAY BE FIXED AT $16.35

IMMENSE DEBT SADDLED UPON CITY BY THE STATE FORCES INCREASE.

The Dooming Board, consisting of the principal assessors and first assistant, is to-day in session in the City Council Chamber for the purpose of determining the tax rate for this year. They will continue to meet daily until the middle of August. A rate of $16.35 per thousand is expected. This is an increase of 45 cents.

With an immense burden saddled upon the city by the State this year, Boston must raise $21,971,274.53 by taxation, which is $1,153,261.51 more than last year. This means that property holders will either have to face a big increase in the rate itself or that valuations must be raised substantially.

"We shall not know positively what the rate will be for 1908 for two or three weeks," said Secretary Folsom of the board to an AMERICAN reporter to-day.

Rich Men Behind Boost.

A member of the board who did not wish to be quoted made the statement that trustees and handlers of some of the largest estates in Boston, many of them undervalued, are trying to influence the assessors comprising the Dooming Board to raise the rate $1, if need be, rather than to boost valuations, for they fear that if assessments once go up they will not come down, though the tax rate might be reduced after this year with proper economy by the authorities.

It is probable that the Dooming Board will compromise, increasing both the rate and the valuations, so that the rate will be about $16.35. If valuations are not increased at all the rate must soar as high as $16.80, as against $15.90 last year. The highest rate in the past twenty-three years was in 1905 at $16. Ten years ago it was but $13.

Asked to Raise Rates.

"Several handlers of big estates have come to us," said the member of the board mentioned, "asking us to raise the tax rate, even $1, rather than to increase valuations. Much property throughout the city, mostly in the downtown sections, is under-assessed.

"The Dooming Board is of the opinion that these assessments should be increased, but the trustees feel that such a raise would be a burden on them for all time, whereas a higher tax rate for one year might be forgotten the next year.

"The Brookline increase this year is 80 cents higher than last year's rate. Ours, based on present valuations, would be 90 cents. It is the desire of the board to raise some valuations, and at the same time cut down the 90-cent jump in the rate to 40 or 50 cents.

$16.35 Rate Expected.

"From the present outlook, even with the raise in valuations, we fear that the rate this year cannot be possibly lower than $16.35.

The itemized statement of what the city must raise by taxation is as follows:

City Council appropriations	$18,382,856.00
School Board appropriations	4,025,891.53
Total	$22,408,747.53
Less estimated income	3,532,542.36
Total	$18,876,205.17
State tax	1,981,350.00
Abolition of grade crossings	170,890.55
Armory loan assessment	7,150.00
Metropolitan park assessment	631,583.07
Metropolitan sewer assessment	262,095.74
Metropolitan water (from taxes)	42,000.00
Total	$21,971,274.53
Total in 1907	20,818,013.02
Increase	$1,153,261.51

TRIES TO END LIFE IN CELL

WARREN, July 30.—After being pursued by a mob which threatened to lynch him for the alleged theft of a horse and wagon, and his arrest by the police, an unidentified man attempted to end his life by hanging himself with a strip from his blanket from an upper bar in his cell. To-day he has not recovered consciousness and is likely to die. Pawn tickets were found in his pockets bearing the name, "Alton Torsey, Saco, Me." The tickets showed loans in Boston, Springfield and Pawtucket.

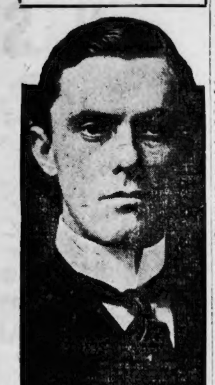
Lieut. Robert E. Belcher Ordered Court-Martialed



BELCHER'S DOWNFALL DUE TO FINANCIAL TROUBLES

LIEUTENANT ORDERED COURT-MARTIALED NOW DECLARED TO BE INSANE.

That Lieutenant Robert E. Belcher, whose court-martial has been ordered by Governor Guild on the charge of appropriating $686 of the State's money due his men for duty at the Chelsea fire, first became financially entangled by his efforts to associate with men whose means were far greater than his own, is to-day declared by his brother officers. Relatives of Belcher say that he is insane and is now confined in a State institution.

That Belcher's affairs have been in a bad way for a long time has been no secret to his brother officers in the Massachusetts National Guard. Long before it was made public that he had failed to make a return of the $686 drawn to pay the men who served under him during and after the Chelsea fire, his probable court-martial was quietly discussed in the inner circles.

A section of the military law forbidding the discussion of military affairs by officers and enlisted men with outsiders has kept the matter from becoming public.

Declared Violently Insane.

June 15 it was given out to the military authorities that Lieutenant Belcher was violently insane and was to be examined by physicians that day preliminary to his incarceration in some institution. Later Francis A. Estey, former ballot law commissioner, who was acting for Belcher's family, told the officers of the Signal Corps that the matter of the pay of the men who served after the Chelsea fire would be settled in a short time, but as nothing was done the men whose pay was confiscated by the lieutenant made a formal complaint.

One of the Signal Corps members, discussing Belcher's case under a pledge that his name be withheld, said:

"I have seen this thing coming for a long time. When Captain Stevens was court-martialed a year or more ago Lieutenant Belcher did not escape criticism, and it was believed that he would be court-martialed afterward, but influential friends saved him. The court that tried Captain Stevens accused Lieutenant Belcher of not telling the truth.

In Financial Difficulties.

"He has been spending more money than he could afford for a long time. His house in Ashland was sold under the hammer. He has been trying to keep up his end with spenders who had more income in a week than he had in a year."

Lieutenant Belcher's activities at the time of the San Francisco disaster won him great praise both at San Francisco, whither he was sent with supplies from this State, and at home. He was considered a capable executive officer, and when Boston people were organizing relief work for Chelsea after the fire he was recommended to the relief committee as an officer who had experience in San Francisco.

Belcher's present whereabouts are unknown except to a few relatives and friends. Mrs. Belcher and her two children are not to be found at their former residence in Dorchester and are believed to be with friends.

WORCESTER PRIEST DIES AT HOSPITAL

Father McGillicuddy Sinks After Operation on Ulcerated Tooth.

Rev. Daniel F. McGillicuddy, rector of St. Stephen's Roman Catholic Church at Worcester since 1895, died to-day at the Charlesgate Hospital, Boston, as the result of an operation for an ulcerated tooth.

Three weeks ago the tooth was filled by a Worcester dentist. It soon grew so painful that Father McGillicuddy went to the Charlesgate Hospital last Sunday. An operation was advised and Father McGillicuddy consented.

He began to fail almost immediately after he came out from the influence of the anaesthetic. He grew weaker steadily and his temperature soon rose to the point of a high fever, dying to-day at the hospital.

Father McGillicuddy was born in Worcester on May 13, 1865. He was graduated from the Worcester High School in 1878, and from Holy Cross College in 1881. He studied theology at Grand Seminary in Montreal and was ordained there by Archbishop Fabre on December 20, 1884.

He served as curate at Milford, Mass., for seven years, and for one and one-half years at Leominster. Then he was rector of St. Athanasius's Church, Westfield, from 1893 to 1895, when he was sent to this city.

Father McGillicuddy was a prominent and popular pastor. He was well known in temperance work, and for four consecutive years was president of the Springfield Diocesan Total Abstinence Union.

SWEETHEART AGAINST WIFE IN DEATH CASE

William C. Howard in New Bedford Court on Charge of Manslaughter.

NEW BEDFORD, July 30.—The trial of William C. Howard, a United States soldier stationed at Fort Rodman, charged with manslaughter in causing the death on July 12, 1905, of Edward Dewhurst, a mill hand, in Hazelwood Park, this city, began before Judge Milliken and a jury in the District Court this morning.

The charge was reduced from murder, first degree, because the government feared it would be unable to secure a conviction on that charge in view of the evidence, Howard claiming that Dewhurst attacked him first with a revolver, and his story being substantiated by Grace Sturtevant, a pretty New Bedford girl, who was the only witness of the murder.

Opposite Howard in the court this morning sat his young wife, Ida, a pretty Southern belle of twenty-one, whose disclosures led to her husband's arrest. Although anxious to see her husband freed, she will not testify for him, nor will the government ask her to testify against him.

Wife Frowns on Girl.

They sat within a dozen feet of each other, but no sign of greeting passed between them.

Close beside Mrs. Howard throughout the morning proceedings sat the Sturtevant girl, gowned entirely in white and smiling at the prisoner each time their eyes met.

Mrs. Howard detected these side glances and smiles and she frowned. Finally she moved her chair and turned her back upon the girl.

Howard, who entered a plea of not guilty to the charge against him, is defended by Attorney Edward P. Bannon. To aid him the soldiers at Fort Rodman have raised a purse of about $200.

They believe the young man's story that he fired the fatal shots at Dewhurst in self-defence and as many of them have known him since the time of his first enlistment, they are anxious to see him freed.

Girl to Take Stand.

Grace Sturtevant will take the witness stand this afternoon or to-morrow morning and swear, it is said, that on the night she and Howard sat together in Hazelwood Park, Dewhurst crept up to them from behind. In the dark, she will say, she could see a revolver in his hand. She will add that Howard drew his revolver and fired to protect her and himself.

Three witnesses were sworn this forenoon.

SHIPPING CONTRACTOR DIES.

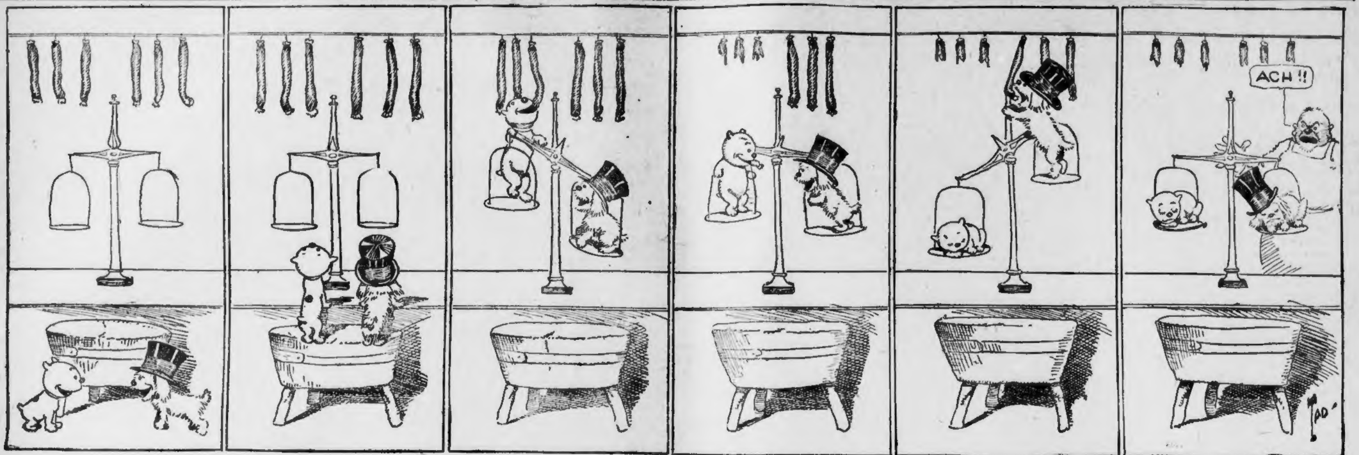
A PICTURE STORY WITH BUT ONE WORD---BY TAD



Mrs. Hammer Finesses

But Her Little Ruse Proves to Be a Boomerang

By ARLETTA B. CANFIELD

Do you know I just thought I had Hammer where he was both afraid and dassen't, but I want to proclaim right here that I ran up against a big, healthy stump in my pathway the other day and I didn't have any stump puller handy either.

It was Monday and wash day and, to make things ideally twisted into double bow knots, old "Aunt Melinda" had sent up the whole next generation of dark complected little heathens to tell me that, "Mammy done stuck a nail in huh foot and cain't git hyeah. She done say to tell yuh dat she wouldn't be so 'sturbed 'bout it if it wasn't for de fac' dat she done promise Mistuh Hammer to I'un de white vest dat he want to splurge in at de weddin' on Chuseday."

Now, if you are a half way housekeeper, you know that the clothes had been reposing gracefully in soap and water all night and that the fire under the kettle was going to beat old Tige after a 'possum, so what could Mehitable do but prepare to chase the festive laundry over the wash board to the tune ground out by necessity's rickety old hand organ?

Time for Finessing

My thinking apparatus struck a new gait and caught up with the idea that this was the time and the place for a little finesse on the part of the newly installed laundress, so I said to Mehitable:

"Here, we two and myself will just put on a kettle of cabbage and corned beef on to cook with the same fire which is sizzling along under the boiler, and thus hit two stones with one bird."

Did Hammer like corned beef and cabbage? Well, it was up to him to develop an affinity for it that day, for that was all the fodder that would be discovered in the manger, and he could chew it or let it alone as he chose. Do you suppose that I was going to sing all the songs on the day's programme without having somebody else to play the accompaniments? There was some consolation in being shot out of an emergency cannon and that was that when I came down I would alight on Hammer.

Misery Loves Company

Yes, misery does love company, and wash day misery especially. I never did see a woman on wash day who didn't want to drown all her neighbors in the soap suds and scald them in the kettle besides.

Well, the sun finally chased itself toward the Western edge of the world and was getting ready to crawl into its trundle bed underneath. My heart began to sing in rag time measure, for wasn't it nearly time for Hammer to bring his appetite along with him from the weary work of his office, where this said weary work was done from the depths of a big easy office chair, and consisted in ordering around other people and smoking cigars under an electric fan?

Oh! I had the way prepared for his happiness. The odor of the cabbage was lurking behind the front door, where it could greet him affectionately when he entered his home, sweet home.

If there was any one thing that he hated worse than cabbage, it was corned beef, and that also was crying aloud for recognition in the vestibule.

"One Touch of Nature"

If it is true that "one touch of nature makes the whole world akin," I was sure akin to the bunch that afternoon, for I forgot everything but my savage desire to get even with Hammer because Melinda stuck a nail in her foot. I arranged so that I might have a proscenium box seat when the curtain should rise on the first act of the tragedy, and was just perfecting the extra woebegoneness of my appearance for the occasion when the telephone bell rang.

Now, wouldn't it everlastingly tip over your apple cart the way things do get twists on to themselves in this world! What did I hear from the batty old wire but Hammer's squeaky little voice saying:

"Hello, Lovey! Say, you won't mind if I stay downtown for dinner to-night, will you? Hiram Pettit is in from Gumtown and wants me to do the eats with him. You know we've got a deal on with his firm that means some silver in my jeans, and I think I'd better let him lead me around a tittle bit. I'll be home early. By-by!"

Discourage an Angel

Now, if that wouldn't discourage a real angel I am not acquainted with anything that would! What did I do? Why, what could I do but just do nothing at all? You can't throw chunks at a man at that distance, and if you could, what assurance would you have that you'd hit him?

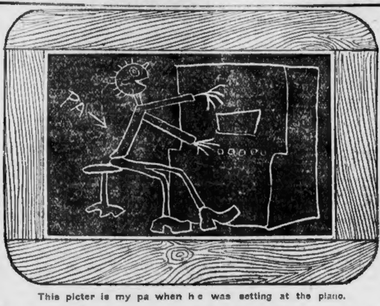
The tension for a while was audible, and as my thoughts become less luminous I began to open up the doors and windows. Hammer shouldn't have the satisfaction of hearing before he got inside the house what he would have had for dinner had not Providence and Hiram Pettit butted into the game.

The corned beef and cabbage noisiness was too good a weapon to give away gratis. I would have it for the time when it would do the most good. So, Hammer doesn't know yet what is hanging over his head.

I always did like to hold something in reserve for emergencies.

Bobbie's Slate---By William F. Kirk

Pa Breaks Up a Musicale and Gets Scolded Pretty Hard by Ma



This picter is my pa when he was setting at the piano.

THE picter on my slait today is Pa setting at the piano, we was having a musi-kale, but everybody went away wen Pa started to play & sing.

It was nite befoar last. Ma asked sum of the nabors to cum over & heer a frend of hers wich is Miss Sweeney play on the piano. Miss Sweeney was edgekated in Paree, she sed. I doant know wat skool is Paree, but she sed that is the skool she went to.

Sum other folks that was thare played sum things too, & everybody was having a good time till Pa calm hoam, he sed business kep him away.

What Ho, Pa sed wen he calm in, a merry gathering of villagers, sed Pa. I am delited, Pa sed, beekaus musick hath power to sooth the savage beest, musick is one (1) of the gratest things in this world, if not the gratest.

I am vary fond of musick, sed Pa, & also I mite add that I am a able exponent of it. Do you like Wagner? sed a lady to Pa. I wud like him all right if he was a Giant, sed Pa. I wish McGraw had him. He made five (5) hits yesterday in five times at bat, Pa sed.

Then Miss Sweeney set down at the piano & she sang a song wich is called the Prison Song & it beegins How I have Sled to Rest Me. That is sum song, isent it, sed Pa. It's funny, Pa sed, what a nice song can be wrote about a jail.

The last time I was in jail I rote a song myself, Pa sed, it was called Iron Bars Do Not a Prison Make But Thay Always Lock the Door. It was a vary pathetik song, sed Pa, & oft in the nite I wud sing it for my fellow prisoners. I am a grate hand for making myself at hoam, sed Pa, eeven in a jail. My fellow prisoners were vary fond of me.

Then Ma beegan to look at Pa kind of funny, & wen Pa notised Ma looking at him that way he kep his mouth shut until Miss Sweeney had sung a other peece, wich was vary pretty, it was called the Sex-tet from Loosha, Pa tried to join in the korus, but Ma stopped him.

I think this is so soul-full, sed one of the ladies to Miss Sweeney, voicing, as it does, all of the gratest & tenderest pashuns of humanity. Yes, indeed, sed Miss Sweeney, thare always is a indef-inable sumthing about Loosha that lifts one (1) out of oneself & brings the finer part of us into the presence of the grate unknown, sed Miss Sweeney.

Do you know Capting Gorgonzola, sed Pa. I never met him, sed Miss Sweeney. It aint a man, sed Pa, it's a song, it goes like this, the naim of it: Capting Gorgonzola of the Good Ship Cheese. It was wrote by Vince Bryant, sed Pa.

As I was saying, Miss Sweeney told Ma & the ladies, thare is sumthing en-nobling about the up-lifting influoences of anything elevating & ascending. Such, for instens, is that wunderful rap-sody of Liszt, wich I play by the hour, by the day, for all eternity, it seems, sed Miss Sweeney.

The last part of the first verse is funny, sed Pa, about this ship. Let's see, how does the tune go, oh, yes, sed Pa. The hull was made of rokefort, the portholes was of Swiss, the gunners was a able crew & thay cud never mis; the masts was made of camembert & thay was vary tall, but Capting Gorgonzola was the biggest cheese of all. Ha ha, sed Pa, that feller Bryant has handed me many a good laff, sed Pa.

All the nabors began to look kind of funny & one (1) of the ladies got up & sed I must be going. Must you go, sed Pa, I am sorry. If you want me to, sed Pa, I will send you the words and musick of Capting Gorgonzola. No, thank you, sed the lady & she went hoam & then a other lady put on her hat & she went hoam too.

Miss Sweeney sang Hoam Sweet Hoam & then she went, & as soon as she was gone Pa went to the Piano & sed I Will Now Render a Ballad Wich I have wrote, it is called Thares a Cockroach in Your Tresses, Mamie Deer.

Then all the peepul went excep Ma & me, & Ma sent me to bed so she cud have a long talk with Pa. She skolded Pa pretty hard, I cud heer them.

"Waste Not; Want Not"

Uncle Alexander Warns Against Inviting Vain Regret

By KENNETT HARRIS

MY Uncle Alexander listened patiently to the hired man's tale of woe, but there was no sympathy in his slow smile.

"That's right, Si," was his comment. "If you had took the calf, an' it had got well on you, an' growed up to be a good milk cow, you'd have made money on it, sure pop. 'Of all the sad words of tongue or pen the saddest is what a dum fool I have been.' That ain't the way it reads in the autygraft albums, but it's the way I figger it."

"How in nation was I to know?" demanded the hired man.

"Jesso," said my Uncle Alexander, agreeably, "jesso. That's the way it is. If we only knowed an opportunity when we see one, we'd all be better off than we are. We don't, though, an' the result is we can only look back on the things that we missed an' do some lively cussin'.

"Not but what that helps a considerable. Buddy here, by the way, didn't know that if he had kep' the wood box full up for a week stiddy I was agoin' to take him to town on the Fourth an' give him two bits spendin' money."

It would have been a "considerable relief" to me just then, but I refrained.

"Whenever I think of the chances that we miss I'm always reminded of Old Wesley Taylor an' his railroad pass," continued my Uncle Alexander.

Not Wasteful Kind

"Old Wes was always a powerful hand to make the most of everything that he got his claws on to. He owned about forty acres of purt' tol'able derned good land where the glass works is now, an' if there was a square foot on it that wasn't growin' somethin' or another all Summer an' pasturin' somethin' in Winter, don't you never believe a word I tell you.

"There wasn't nothin' he ever let go to waste. What him an' his wife couldn't sell they'd feed to the hogs, an' what the hogs wouldn't eat they'd cook up for theirselves. An' he was a great worker, was Wesley—until he got that pass."

"How'd he get a pass?" asked the hired man. "I wouldn't have thought he'd been popyerler enough to get elected to anythin'."

"If you'll hold your horses I'll tell you," said my Uncle Alexander, rather irritably. "It come like this: The railroad wanted to run through a little neck of his farm—fifty foot on each side o' the track for about twelve feet. Most all the folks around was glad to give their land for nothin', knowin' that the company was startin' up its line out o' public sperrit an' to benefit the public; but Wes got a fool notion into his head that it was nothin' but a money-makin' scheme from first to last, an' he said they could have his land if they paid him what he wanted for it.

"All he wanted an' asked was $3,000 for it, an' he hung out for it until the railroad company said that it would back right out. The right-of-way man labored with Wesley for the most of a month, off an' on, but the best he could do was to bring him down to $300.

"After the deed was signed an' the money paid, the railroad was so tickled that they sent the ol' skeezicks a pass for a year, good from the time the trains started runnin'.

"From that time on," said my Uncle Alexander, "Wesley didn't do nothin' else but ride on the cars. Sometimes he'd go off an' be gone two or three days, an' sometimes he'd jest go as far as Cronstadt an' back, but he never missed a trip.

"He'd carry his baskit o' lunch along, shove it under the seat, fill his pipe, put up his feet, stick his thumbs in the armholes of his vest an' wait till the conductor come along an' gave him a chance to pull that pass."

My Uncle Alexander chuckled. "There was one time he come naigh missin' his ride," he said. "Jest as the train was pullin' out he came racin' down the main street, an' the conductor jest managed to pull him on to the rear car.

"As soon's he got his breath he says to the conductor, 'Hank,' he says, 'I guess I'll have to get you to slow down an' let me off at the quarry, so's I can ketch the down freight back. I jest sent the doctor up to my old woman. She's took sick, an' I cal'late I ought to be around. It might be dangerous.'

Waste a Pass? Not He

"'What in the nation did you start out for, then?' says the conductor.

"Wesley looked at him kinder pained an' s'prised. 'You don't think I cal'late to let that pass run to waste, do you?' he says.

"Finally, the day before the pass run out, Wesley was waitin' at the junction for 25 when he saw the right-of-way man who had sent him the pass checkin' some baggage, so he ambled up. 'What are you checkin' that there trunk on?' he asked.

"'On my pass, o' course,' says the railroad man.

"Wesley's eyes bulged out. 'Do you mean to tell me that you can check trunks on passes?' he says.

"'You bet,' says the right-of-way man.

"'Could I have checked on mine?'

"'You could. A hundred and fifty pounds.'

"'Well,' says Wes, 'if that ain't a swindle! I never knew about that, an' I never checked a pound. That makes about eighteen tons that I might have hauled the length of the line, an' haven't. By gosh! You fellers have got to make me a rebate, or I'll make a fuss.'

"But they wouldn't make him any rebate, an' so he had to take it out cussin' the road," said my Uncle Alexander. "He done that, too, till the day they laid him away in good shape in the symmetry."

Giving the Ecru Tint

IN tinting lace or lingerie the chief thing to be avoided is the streaking of the garment. When the method used is that of dipping the material in coffee, care should be taken to thoroughly wet the garment before putting it in the dye. Warm coffee should be used, and it is preferable that the previous water bath should be of the same temperature. By observing this rule streaking is avoided.

But tenaciously as do most women cling to coffee as a dye, it is said that even better results are obtained from tubes of paint and gasoline. The paint is first squeezed in a vessel, to which is added enough gasoline to give it the right shade, after which the article is immersed. In the case of hats or slippers, however, the paint is applied with a brush. Experiments must be made with a scrap of the material before the whole garment is put into the mixture.

Expert Advice on Health and Beauty

BY THE PROFESSOR

SULPHUR AND MOLASSES

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you kindly give me the formula for molasses and sulphur; also the dose and how often in the day to take it? Would like to have your suggestion for a good preparation for pimples to apply externally.

K. L.

MIX your sulphur with three times as much molasses by measure. Take a teaspoonful every morning and night for three days, then rest for three days; take again for another three days, and rest the second time; repeat for three more days, which will give you a course of nine days' treatment. Use peroxide for the pimples, anoint with any good face cream.

DOSEN'T WANT GRAY HAIR

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I am a young lady twenty-six years old and within the past year nearly half of my hair over forehead and temples has turned gray. It is naturally a very dark brown, nearly black. Please tell me the cause of this; also if it is possible to restore gray hairs to natural color by scalp treatments. Is there any harmless tea, or something of that sort, which I could use to turn the hair dark, as I don't want gray hair. I dont want to use hair restorer or dyes.

L. B. G.

IF the tea or sage tea tonic often given in this column is not sufficient to turn your hair dark, try the following: Crushed sulphate of iron, one dram; rectified spirits, one fluid ounce; oil of rosemary, ten drops; pure rain water, half a pint. You can use ale instead of the water if you desire. Shake until thoroughly mixed and dissolved. This will stain linen, so you should be careful in applying it to protect your bed clothes.

TO GAIN FLESH

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I am of a very slight build and very thin. Will you kindly tell me of something inexpensive that will make my body plumper and my face fatter? Is chocolate a good food for producing flesh?

CONSTANT READER.

EAT plenty of peas, beans, potatoes, etc., drink plenty of water, take exercise out of doors, sleep in well-ventilated room and keep out of doors as much as possible, not allowing anything to disturb your mental equilibrium; sleep long hours. Chocolate is fattening, as also is milk. Avoid tea and coffee, and take little acids, but plenty of sugar.

Sayings of a Cynic

EVERY man has an aim in life, but lots of them are mighty poor marksmen.

You can't believe all you hear. Many a girl named Rose hasn't a cent to her name.

There are lots of men who never swear, and we wouldn't believe them on their oath if they did.

A good many things have been done in the name of charity, and a good many people, too.

Many a man gets the reputation of being well informed because people happen to ask him the things he happens to know.

We can always think of a lot of reasons why other people ought to be satisfied with what they have.

When a fellow tells a girl he is not worthy of her, she should take him at his word and not look for proof.

Annette Kellerman Ready for Her Attempt to Swim from Charlestown Bridge to Boston Light

GIRL TRIES FOR RECORD IN HARBOR SWIM

Annette Kellerman Sure She Can Reach Boston Light From Charlestown.

MEN HAVE ALWAYS FAILED

At high tide this afternoon Miss Annette Kellerman, the champion woman swimmer of the world, and one of the star features at Wonderland, attempts a twelve-mile swim from Charlestown Bridge to Boston Light.

This is a most difficult and dangerous swimming test. Expert men swimmers have tried it without success. Swift cross-currents at the mouth of Boston Harbor defeat the stoutest muscles.

Yet Annette Kellerman, a slender girl, will try to swim the entire distance.

Amazes Lifesaver.

Miss Kellerman will be followed by the steam yacht Marion and a tug. On the yacht will be Miss Kellerman's manager, James Sullivan, Miss Kellerman's invited friends and newspaper men. The tug is chartered by other swimming enthusiasts and pleasure seekers, anxious to witness the swimming feat.

Last Saturday afternoon the plucky young woman swam from Bass Point Pier to Revere Beach against the howling storm, a distance of over four miles. She made the swim in two hours. In the boat following her was Samuel Mahoney, the "Why she didn't even get her face wet after the preliminary dive and rode over the heavy seas like a chip, using the trudgeon stroke all the way, chatting and laughing whenever the boat drew near and occasionally taking up the refrain of the song "Wonderland" as we sang it in the boat. That the girl could buffet the high seas and driving wind and rain without a moment's rest and sing snatches of song along the route, talking to us and laughing all the way, was almost beyond belief.

"For the last half mile before reaching the beach Miss Kellerman announced her coming to the beach folks with the 'coo-ee' call, her voice ringing out every few seconds as she breasted the waves and glided swiftly along."

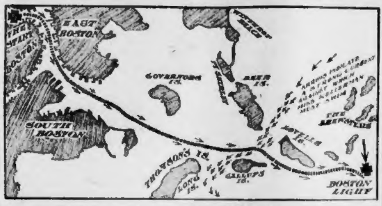
"I'll Win," She Says.

Many men who have essayed the Boston Light test have failed because they underestimated the pull of the cross-currents at the mouth of the harbor. Miss Kellerman will save her strength for the first five or six miles, swimming easily and reserving her energy for the pull against the cross-currents.

Instead of drifting down with this current when she reaches it, and then trying to swim back against it, she will cut directly across.

Miss Kellerman says she will swim the distance if it can be done.

"I will not fail," she declared, "if it is within human possibility. If anybody in the world can make that swim, I will make it."



IRISH LEAGUE AT WONDERLAND PARK TO-DAY

To-day the United Irish League of Lowell holds its annual outing at Wonderland Park, and with them comes the world celebrated walker, Dan O'Leary, who will give an exhibition at 4 o'clock. The Caledonian Club of Holyoke, accompanied by Caledonians of Greater Boston, also hold their annual outing at Wonderland to-day to the number of several thousand.

Many other excursions are booked for this week and next, besides those of the Sunday American Outing Club next Monday and Tuesday, for which next Sunday's American will publish two free tickets. The tickets are for park admission and for the House that Jack Built. Assistant Manager Perry has booked some new arcade attractions in recognition of the coming of the vast crowds.

The official outing day of the Knights of Pythias, in annual convention in Boston to the number of 125,000, will be Tuesday, when the ballroom will be exclusively assigned to them.

The House that Jack Built has the Mirror Maze, where one gets lost among his own reflections, and secret passages, false exits and electric surprises at every turn.

SHOT IN AIR AT 1,000 FEET, DROPS IN 3 PARACHUTES

Professor Flower, the balloonist at Vanity Fair, R. I., says it is a comparatively simple thing to be drawn up 1,000 feet, to be shot into the air while swaying with a balloon and to drop to earth in two or three parachutes opening one after the other, and that if the patrons like it he will do the trick indefinitely.

In addition to Flower's performance Manager Meyer has prepared a long string of open-air spectacles for next week, when the Sunday American Outing Club visits the great amusement resort. Members will find in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN a set of free tickets worth 60 cents for use on three days next week.

The baby show is creating a deal of interest, while the Wild West, the pony show, Brewster shipwreck, human laundry, Rocky Road to Dublin, human butterfly and the others are doing a great business.

CITY OF BOSTON.

CITY OF BOSTON, Street Department—Sealed proposals for the collection and removal of store dirt, house dirt and ashes in the North Dorchester District (as shown on the official map on file at the office of the Superintendent of Streets) will be received at said office of the Superintendent of Streets, 47 City Hall, until 12 m. of Thursday, August 6, 1908, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read. Said ashes to be collected and removed at least once each week, to the satisfaction of the Superintendent, and to be delivered at dumps, to be provided by the contractor; the contractor will furnish the carts and the necessary horses and men. Form of contract may be seen at the Central Office of the Street Department. The contract is to cover a term of two (2) years, from September 1, 1908, dependent on the proper appropriations from time to time by the city government, or unless a different system of collection is adopted. Said proposals to state the terms for collection and removal per year. Each proposal must be accompanied by a properly certified check for $100, and a bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract. The Superintendent reserves the right to reject any and all proposals, should he deem it for the interest of the city so to do, and to give preference to the proposals of bidders agreeing to pay the trade unions' rates of wages. THE THIEF--By Thompson Buchanan

By Permission of Charles Frohman—Novelized from Henri Bernstein's Drama.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.

M. and Mme. Lagardes are a wealthy couple spending the Summer at their chateau just outside of Paris. Mme. Lagardes is wealthy in her own right, and in the habit of giving her husband large checks, which he cashes for her at his office and brings to her the cash, which she drops carelessly in the drawer of a secretary in her boudoir.

In balancing accounts they discover that in three months the drawer has been robbed of 20,000 francs.

They try the secretary and find the lock is old and rickety, and find marks of a knife blade on it, showing that it had been tampered with.

Who, then, is the thief?

M. Lagardes accuses Mme. Lagardes's maid, Theresa. Mme. Lagardes is sure it is Justin, M. Lagardes's valet.

Besides the servants there are in the house only Fernand, M. Lagardes's son by a former marriage, and M. and Mme. Voysin, who are old friends.

Mme. Voysin, a beautiful woman of twenty-three, through her vanity and love of flattery, has been led into a flirtation with Fernand Lagardes, a handsome youth of eighteen, who is desperately in love with her. She really loves her husband, Richard. Fernand's attentions become an annoyance, and she ridicules him and sends him away angry, after telling him he must buy her no more costly gifts.

Again the escritoire is robbed, this time of 500 francs, and M. Lagardes reports the thefts to his old friend Gondoin, foremost detective of France, who arranges to enter the Lagardes home as a guest in the guise of M. Zambault, an investor, and to take with him his chief assistant, Francois, as valet.

Marie, angry with Fernand for continuing to place love missives in her boudoir, upbraids him, ridicules him, and at last tries to frighten him, telling him her husband would pull his ears if he ever found it out. She finally secures his promise to go and get the letters he has written to her and tear them up. Soon after Fernand leaves her husband arrives.

Lagardes tells M. and Mme. Voysin, in the presence of Mme. Lagardes that Zambault is really Gondoin, the detective, and that he has agreed to tell that night who is the thief. Gondoin is summoned and Lagardes demands the name.

Gondoin accuses Fernand, and Lagardes indignantly demands proof of his son's guilt.

Finally Fernand is summoned, accused by Gondoin, cross-questioned and urged to confess.

The boy confesses. Later in their boudoir Richard and Marie discuss Fernand's plight, concerning which Marie is greatly worried.

"HE came up to leave letters for me," she explained weakly.

"Letters, and, no doubt, you gave them back to him this evening. No doubt. Wretched woman, have you done laughing at me?"

She rushed toward him, trying to throw her arms about his neck, but he pushed her away. "Richard, my beloved, listen. Listen. What do you suppose? What is it you suppose?"

He held her off at arm's length. "I no longer suppose," he cried. "I, too, have been eighteen. I, too, would have sacrificed myself."

She stepped back rigid from the shock.

"Richard, take care, take care! You will regret."

"Regret, nothing!" he roared. "I am glad to know you at last as you are. You didn't use your cunning only to unlock a drawer, to empty a cash box. You are wicked, bad, unfaithful in everything. Unfaithful!"

"Unfaithful," she half whispered, aghast.

"Yes," he shouted, "unfaithful! Only a mistress could have disposed of a man as you have disposed of this young scoundrel."

He stood before her, more terrible than when he had first accused her of being a thief. But she was not frightened now. She knew that she was innocent, except for her folly. All her womanhood rose in revolt against the shameful accusation. "Silence," she almost screamed. "I order you to be silent!"

Her eyes flaming with wrath, held him to the spot.

"Now it is your vanity as a male which is roaring," she sneered in turn. "I understand it. A mad jealousy has got you and has rushed to your head. But don't be cad enough to doubt my purity. I have stolen. I have stolen, yes. I am a thief. Spit it in my face. Give me up. Publish my shame. But don't you dare to sully our past love. I forbid you to touch that."

Again he tried to push by her.

"Where are you going?" she cried.

He answered her between his clenched teeth: "Going to wake up your young gentleman, damn him, and have a few words with him.

"He pushed her away, rushed past her and had reached the door, when a noise made him turn. Marie had rushed to the window and stood there on the balcony. Straight below was a drop of 100 feet to the bottom of the ravine.

"What are you going to do?" gasped Richard with a clutch at his heart.

"You don't know me," she cried. "You shall not degrade yourself. If you leave this room I shall throw myself out on the rocks."

He came back from the door slowly.

"What do you expect to do—keep me a prisoner here forever?" he asked.

She held her place of vantage as she replied:

"I ask you only to wait until morning. Wait and think. You can do what you please in the morning."

With a sign of utter despair the man threw himself onto the divan. "Very well. We shall wait for daylight."

CHAPTER XIII.

IT was nine o'clock in the morning, and the old library in the country house of Monsieur Lagardes was as quiet, as respectable, as unruffled as if the greatest tragedy in the history of the family had not occurred during the last twelve hours.

Marie was sitting on a sofa near the centre of the room—but what a different Marie! Ordinarily she would have been bright, gay, smiling with the glory of youth and the joy of another day, but now she sat pale wan dejected watching with furtive eyes her husband as he paced to and fro with quick, uneven strides at the other end of the room.

It had been a terrible night for the pair. For hours after Marie's desperate threat of suicide had forced Richard to temporize they had sat in a room staring in the dim light blankly at each other.

Occasionally, Marie had tried to talk, to reopen the old argument, to make him understand; but Richard, his man's vanity stabbed to the heart, would not listen. He had had too many affairs with women himself, every one conducted with a high hand, to begin to appreciate the real relation that had existed between his wife and the romantic little dreamer Fernand.

The idea that Fernand could have sacrificed himself for a woman who had refused him was entirely beyond the comprehension of this middle-aged, practical egotist. "She is guilty; she must be guilty," was the only thought that his mind could embrace; and so through the long hours of the night he had sat grimly silent, quivering all the time with pain from the terrible blow that his man's vanity had received.

Daylight had brought no relief. He had dressed and, according to custom, come down to the library; but yet he did not know what he was going to do, and Marie did not know her sentence.

At last the woman sitting on the sofa could stand it no longer. She sprang to her feet with difficulty, repressing her hysteria.

"Are you determined never to speak any more?" she exclaimed.

He made a gesture of impatience.

"What Is the Verdict?"

"At least let me know your verdict. To what am I condemned? This dreadful night has exhausted me morally and physically. Don't be afraid. I shall struggle no more. It is understood you have your own way. But you are wrong, Richard, to add this unkindness. God knows I have suffered enough! What have you made up your mind to do?"

Something in her tone made him turn.

"I have just sent to tell Raymond that I am waiting," he said. "You know what I have to tell him. Afterward"—his jaws set in fighting lines—"afterward we'll settle the other account. I shall see if Fernand plays as cautious a game as you do."

His wife shrugged her shoulders hopelessly.

"Then in five minutes you will have ruined your life," she said. "I love you, Richard, I love only you. For the last time I implore you."

He cut her off with a contemptuous sneer.

"Don't be silly."

Before she could reply Isabel entered.

"Good morning, Marie, deasest. Good morning, Richard."

Fortunately Mme. Lagardes was too overwrought herself, too wearied from the terrible night just gone, to note the appearance and demeanor of her guests.

"I'm tired out, dear," she complained. "We didn't go to bed at all, you know. An hour ago I was still wearing the dress I had on last night."

"Did Raymond get my message just now?" questioned Richard.

"Yes," answered Madame Lagardes. "He's coming down immediately. I dressed and hurried here first, because I want you to help me. A terrible thing has happened, and you must help me to dissuade Raymond in what he proposes."

"Poor old boy," murmured Voysin. And perhaps there was a touch of self pity in his tone.

A Father's Decision.

"You know how Raymond bore up downstairs last night," continued Mme. Lagardes. "Well, he lasted just till we got to our room. Then he broke down. I tried to comfort him, but I could do little.

"Finally he washed his face, brushed his hair, settled his clothes and left me, to go to Fernand's room. I crept after him, but I had not the courage to go in. Then I slipped back to your door, but I heard you two talking and went away.

"In two hours Raymond came back to our room again. He was haggard, worn, defeated. 'Something has happened,' he said. 'Fernand is a different boy. He has changed; I can't make him out.'

"Then he sat down to think and I sat beside him holding his hand. All night we sat there. At daybreak he arose, shook himself with that peculiar gesture he makes when he has come to a decision. My friends"—she paused a moment, then went on with a shudder. "His decision is terrible. He is going to send Fernand out of the country."

Involuntarily one of his listeners quivered. Richard caught Marie's distress. His stern eyes read in it only confirmation of his belief.

"Where will Raymond send the boy?" he asked, still watching Marie.

"To the plantation," said Isabel. "To that desolate place, Montefaccio."

The listening husband drew a long breath.

Madame Lagardes heard and entirely misconstrued.

"It is terrible, isn't it?" she said. "Fernand hasn't the temperament or constitution for such a rough life. I told his father so, but he has determined the boy shall stay out there till he is of age.

"He's doing this thing from a stern sense of duty, but I know what it will mean to him. Raymond is sacrificing himself, for, while Fernand is away he won't know what a good night's rest means, or one day's peace. He—" she stopped abruptly, for her husband had entered unobserved in time to hear the last speech.

If Richard had suffered during the night, Raymond, from his appearance, had endured greater agony. His face was pale and drawn, his eyes, far back in his head, looked haggard, pitiful in their misery. But through it all this brave man had kept his courage, his belief in the good.

"I overheard, my dear," he said with his gentle smile of tenderness for his wife. "I am glad you told our friends."

"I wanted them to use their influence to dissuade you," explained Madame Lagardes.

Sacrifice; Not Punishment.

Her husband shook his head sadly.

"My dear, can't you realize that, loving the boy as I still do, I have exhausted every possible excuse to myself for not sending him away. But I can't think of myself. I must think of him. And I am sending him away to save his career, to rescue his character."

The father turned from his wife to Richard with his next appeal. "Old friend, in your heart, don't you believe that my poor boy has been bewitched by a woman—a bad woman."

Voysin had to swallow twice before he could reply.

"I—I fear so, Raymond," he said at last, bitterly.

The father smiled in gratitude. It was something to his heart to believe that Fernand had fallen not merely through innate weakness, but because of the influence which some woman had gained over his romantic nature.

"That's why I am sending the boy away at once," he explained. "I must put the ocean between him and this woman. All my arrangements have been made. He leaves the house with my secretary, Aubry, in ten minutes. Aubry will care for him over there. Fernand is coming here at 9 o'clock to learn my decision. Dear friends, I ask you to stay here beside me. I want your support and sympathy."

Holds Marie to the Test.

Through Raymond's long speech Richard Voysin had never taken his eyes from his wife's face. He was playing a desperate game. For he felt sure that Marie loved Fernand, and the decision of the father to send the boy away fitted in exactly with his own plan. He thought that now he should know the truth, because if Marie did love him she could not see Fernand go away without making some sign, some outcry. Under his stern gaze he saw his wife begin to wilt. Suddenly she rose from her chair.

"I'm suffocating!" she exclaimed. "I'm choking!"

She started for the door, but with a quick movement he caught her wrist, and in a low voice whispered his stern command.

"Stay!"

"Richard, for pity's sake," she begged.

"Stay!" he repeated.

And before she could say more Fernand entered the room.

"It is 9 o'clock, father. I have come," he announced in a calm voice.

To three in the room the boy's attitude seemed only the effrontery of a love blinded thief. But to one, who knew all, he was a hero, a young demigod, before whom little Marie bowed down in shame.

The father turned his eyes away that he might not witness his son's distress as he delivered the blow.

To Be Concluded To-morrow

BEECHER AND THE BEER.

The Great Preacher's Habit During His Mind-Wearying Lecture Tours.

"Henry Ward Beecher was the first man who ever asked me to drink beer," said a gentleman now high up in religious and philanthropic circles.

"I had just left college and was in need of a position and secured temporary work as lecture manager for the great abolitionist, preacher and orator. It was my duty to travel over the country with Mr. Beecher and see that every arrangement was made for his comfort and convenience.

"Among the duties was that of ordering a lunch to be ready at the hotel after the lecture. 'I never eat anything,' said Mr. Beecher, before going on the platform, but I am always hungry afterwards and want a good meal.'

"At the close of the first lecture on the tour," said the gentleman, "I had everything well arranged for the midnight meal and went into the dining room with Mr. Beecher and sat with him at the table.

"Mr. Beecher beckoned to the colored waiter and said, 'George, do you keep Schlitz Beer?'

"'Yes, sir,' came the answer.

"'Then bring me two bottles.'

"'Yes, sir,' said George, and started off.

"As George reached the other side of the dining room Mr. Beecher again called to him and with his great voice, said, 'Remember, George, nothing but Schlitz Beer.'

"George soon appeared with two bottles; one was put down in front of me and the other in front of Mr. Beecher.

"Having been brought up in a strict temperance family I was somewhat embarrassed, but told Mr. Beecher that I did not use beer. He said that he regularly had a bottle of beer with his after-lecture meal, that it helped his digestion and he slept better for it.

"Thereupon he took my bottle to his side of the table and drank the two bottles of Schlitz himself!"—Adv.

LION TO DROP FROM CLOUDS IN PARACHUTE

To daily carry up to the clouds one of the lions in the Ferrari Animal Show and allow it to drop from the sky in a parachute every day is the new scheme of Professor Bonetti, the celebrated balloonist at Paragon Park.

While the lion drops in one parachute he will drop with two, opening one after the other on the descent.

The scheme originated in a joke when Professor Bonetti dared Manager Dodge to make the ascent. The lion was a compromise, there being nothing special up in the air that Manager Dodge wants, so long as park visitors are satisfied and the Palm Garden and the shows go on apace.

So barring impediments, one of the lion cubs will become an aeronaut and may be seen flying in a balloon by the Sunday American Outing Club when it hies to Paragon Park next Monday and Tuesday. The members will go with sixty cents worth of free tickets to park amusements.

The free ticket gift includes admission to the grounds, to the Merry Widow House, the Alligator Farm, a twenty-five cent admission to the Ferrari Animal "Jungle" for ten cents, a ride for a coupon and five cents at the Circle Swing and two rides for a coupon and five cents on the Roller Coaster.

All these tickets will be published next Sunday.

LEXINGTON PARK IDEAL SPOT FOR FAMILY PICNICS

Next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN will publish another free ticket of admission to Lexington Park. This is a great, cool family amusement resort, where rest and recreation are combined. One can see the monkey show and the fifty odd wild animals, attend the play at the Rustic Theatre, swing, take lunches, or patronize the fine restaurant and ball room at reasonable cost.

Park admission gives a whole day's free fun, including the ball field and use of picnic tables. The AMERICAN gives another free ticket next Sunday.

LAUGHTER REIGNS IN HOUSE OF MIRTH AT CANOBIE LAKE

Admission to the theatre seating 1,200 people; admission to the Laughing Gallery, where you get a prize if you can stop laughing; admission to the House of Mirth, where you laugh harder than before, and a whirlwind ride in the Merry-Go-Round—that is the layout at Canobie Park for the Outing Club next week, the free tickets to be published in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN. Everything is reasonable in price at Canobie Lake Park, including the fun pictures, the restaurant, ballroom and the fun on the lake. No admission is charged to the park.

OLD LANDMARK TO GO!

20 Temple Place To Be Torn Down.

Many identified with the shoe and leather trade, both retail and wholesale, who know shoe values, are, during the great clearance sale now going on at 20 Temple Place, purchasing for their families, and advising their friends to purchase, a year's supply of Sorosis Shoes at the bargain price of two ninety-eight, which is less than the manufacturing cost.

Provided you do not happen to need shoes yourself, you can do no greater favor to your relatives and friends than to mention this sale to them.

BAY STATE MARKSMEN LEAD IN BIG MATCH

WAKEFIELD, July 30.—The Massachusetts military teams took the lead at the start of the interstate match at the Bay State rifle range to-day, and if it can maintain the same high standard this afternoon and to-morrow may beat out the other New England teams.

The match this morning was at the 200-yard rapid fire and 200-yard slow fire, and the Massachusetts team led the New Hampshire team, its closest rival, by 25 points.

In the afternoon the 600 and 800 yards slow fire matches were run off, and to-morrow comes the 1,000-yard slow fire and skirmish run.

The results of the 200-yard rapid and slow fire were as follows:

Massachusetts	511	419	930
New Hampshire	502	403	905
Rhode Island	486	381	867

Sergeant A. Lindroth of Rhode Island was high man at 200 slow fire, with 48 out of 50. Lieutenant J. E. Parker led the Massachusetts team with 45, and Corporal J. P. Bales led Little Rhody with 45.

In the rapid-fire competition Captain M. W. Parker led the Massachusetts team with 39. Captain Degaum was New Hampshire's big man with 40, and Corporal Oscar Strum headed the Little Rhody shooters with 41.

STANLEY KETCHEL STILL FAVORITE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Stanley Ketchel, the Michigan middleweight, and holder of the title of champion in his division, still rules favorite with the betting public here for his coming battle with Hugo Kelly of Chicago to-morrow night.

Naturally the local fans are betting heavily on Ketchel because they have seen him fight and have watched his great improvement, but those who have seen Kelly box at his quarters are wakening and say the betting should be at even money.

Few San Franciscans who saw Kelly mix with Jack (Twin) Sullivan in Los Angeles shortly after the Burns-O'Brien fiasco are willing to declare he was not entitled to the decision, as he beat Sullivan all the way. There are strange twists in the boxing game, and while Ketchel has a right to be considered the favorite, Kelly might spring a surprise. At all events, whether he wins or not, the Chicagoan should give a good account of himself.

As both men are lightning fast and both like to mix it, there will be no slow rounds in the fight. The crowd promises to be large.

The battle of to-morrow night is regarded as likely to be one of the fiercest in years. The weight of 158 pounds at 6 o'clock will enable both men to enter the ring strong and fit, and there seems no question that both are in good shape. Kelly has been working like a Trojan and does not spare his recently discovered arm in training, although he did not use it at all early in his work.

Like most boxing events on the Coast, the advance betting is of comparatively little importance, except as showing the trend of public opinion. The real wagering is usually at the ringside. In Tom Corbett's place odds of 7 to 10 were laid, with Ketchel favorite, but slight play developed and the price was boosted to 4 to 5. Many think this will be the prevailing price at ringside.

BEALS WRIGHT WINS AGAIN AT LONGWOOD

LONGWOOD, July 30.—The big matches were scheduled to-day, and the gallery was large to watch the stars battle for supremacy toward the final round for the Longwood Cup.

As was expected, R. D. Little won his match this morning from J. O. Ames, but he had to play an extra set before Ames would acknowledge him his superior.

The result of this match will probably put Little in the finals, as he is in the upper section, while Beals, Wright and Alexander were in the other to decide between them who would go against Little.

Wright had to subdue H. L. Westfall before taking on Alexander, and he did this in straight sets, Westfall being an easy victim for the Hub player. The form displayed by Wright in this match gave his prospects a great boost, and increased his chances of beating Alexander to-morrow in the semi-finals. Alexander had a hard match on with F. J. Sullaway this afternoon before he tackled Wright.

Wright's playing against George Wrenn, who he beat decisively, and his action in the other matches, gave the impression that he would be the one to challenge for the cup. The results:

SINGLES.

R. D. Little beat J. O. Ames, 6—0, 6—1, 3—6, 6—1.

B. C. Wright beat H. C. Westfall, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2.

THREE BIKE VETS TO MEET AT BEACH OVAL

With a week's extra training Jimmy Moran, Nat Butler and Elmer Collins will be better fitted for their thirty-mile motor paced race at the Revere track next Saturday night.

It's hard picking in trying to name a winner in this event, as Collins is expected to show his real form, for he has had ample time to get over his trip from abroad and has expressed himself to the effect that he will justify the confidence his friends have in him to beat the other veterans.

Every man in the race will be a favorite, making it a toss-up in the selection for the coin-lifter.

WEBSTER PITCHING WELL.

Ray Webster, a Buffalo boy, pitching for the Wilmington team of the Eastern Carolina League, is establishing a foundation for a promising career. He has pitched eleven games and came out on top in nine. Webster's good stick work has aided his team very much in snatching games out of the fire, his batting average being .282.

HUGH M'LEAN WINS LONG RACE EASILY

NEWARK, N. J., July 30.—Hugh McLean of Revere was in great form at the Vailsburg track and defeated Collins and Bedell in a twenty-five-mile motor-paced race.

In the last mile of the race, which was the fastest, McLean circled the mile in 1m. 27⅘s., and again passed Bedell. The American champion finished the race one mile in front of Collins and four laps ahead of Bedell.

Fred Hill, the Boston amateur, starting from scratch, lost the one-mile Repechage handicap by a wheel's length to Peter Drobeck, who started from the eighty-yard mark.

YANKEES IN PARIS.

PARIS, July 30.—Seventeen American athletes who took part in the Olympic games in London arrived here with Trainer Murphy. They are entered for the games to be held here Saturday and Sunday. The Americans include Carpenter, Cartmell, Irons, Pilgrim, Smithson and Hillman.

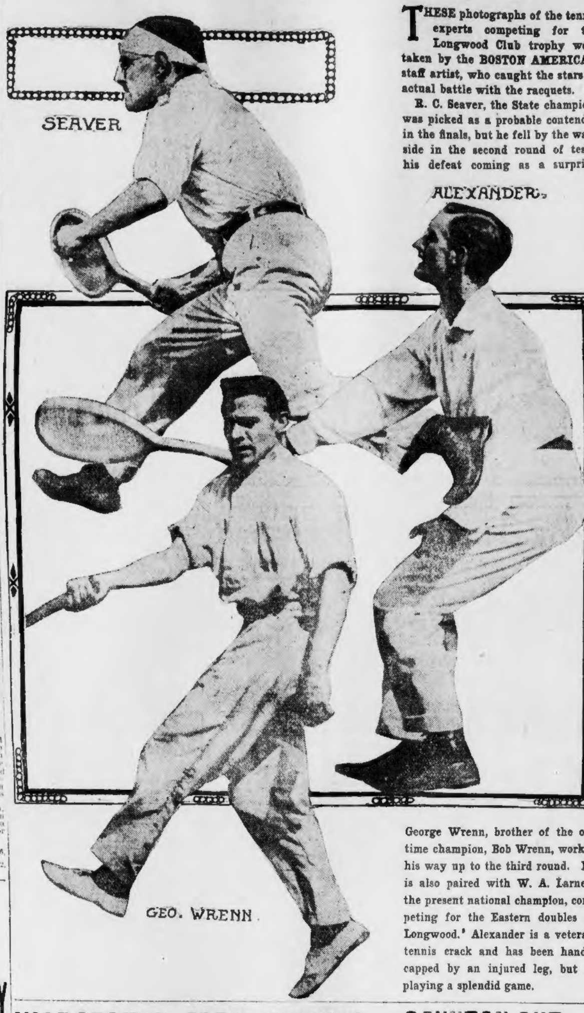
Three Stars in Longwood Tennis Tourney



THESE photographs of the tennis experts competing for the Longwood Club trophy were taken by the BOSTON AMERICAN staff artist, who caught the stars in actual battle with the racquets.

R. C. Seaver, the State champion, was picked as a probable contender in the finals, but he fell by the wayside in the second round of tests, his defeat coming as a surprise.

George Wrenn, brother of the one time champion, Bob Wrenn, worked his way up to the third round. He is also paired with W. A. Larned, the present national champion, competing for the Eastern doubles at Longwood.' Alexander is a veteran tennis crack and has been handicapped by an injured leg, but is playing a splendid game.

WORCESTER MAN ENTERS VANDERBILT AUTO RACE

By J. C. KERRISON.

The latest entrant for the Vanderbilt race is a special 50-horsepower Chalmers-Detroit stock car. J. S. Harrington of Worcester, Mass., makes the entry through the Worcester Automobile Club. Mr. Harrington is the Worcester and Providence representative of the Chalmers-Detroit Company. The car is to be driven by Oliver Light, who for some time has been connected with the Chalmers-Detroit Company, and who has driven in numerous short-distance races and endurance contests. He was formerly connected with the Olds and Cadillac Companies. It is possible that three Chalmers-Detroits will be entered before the entries for the elimination race close.

The other entrants who have deposited their fees with the cup commission are Robert Graves, who enters the Mercedes, which won the 1908 Grand Prix, and which will be driven by Lautenschlager, who drove it in the French classic, and a six-cylinder Mora, now in course of construction at the Mora works, Newark, N. J., and entered by W. W. Burke, the Mora representative in New York.

In addition to these there is a long list of candidates for the elimination race, which will be officially announced when they are completed. It is believed at the office of the cup commission that there will be not less than fifteen or twenty entrants in the elimination race within the next thirty days.

* * *

Commissioner Wickes of the Baltimore street cleaning department intends to instal in his city a system which he thinks will do away with the dust nuisance. His scheme is to use a solution of oil to lay the dust in the city streets similar to that which has proved quite successful on the roads just outside of the city and in the public parks. The only cause of delay in putting the oil cure into use is the smell. This objection, the commissioner declares, will soon disappear, as he has discovered a plan by which he can rob the oil of its objectionable smell to such an extent that those who sniff the fumes could not tell what they are smelling.

* * *

It is to be greatly regretted that the contest for the Hower trophy has come down to a two-cornered battle between cars of the same make, namely, two Pierce runabouts driven by William and Rettling. At the time of the finish of the A. A. A. run in Saratoga these two cars, together with two Stoddard-Daytons and a Premier were tied for honors, and it looked as though a warm battle would be waged all season long. Everything went well until the run to Bedford Springs, when the Premier got into a ditch, which resulted in injuries, the repairing of which caused it to be penalized. The other four cars finished at Pittsburg with a clean score and in excellent condition.

At Bedford Springs a consultation of the four men tied for honors was held and it was admitted that the way things looked then it would take all Summer to fight the matter out on the lines provided, as each and every one of the four cars was in the very best condition.

The running of the Stoddard-Dayton cars was, however, seriously interfering with the business of the factory, and the presence of the two operators thereof was absolutely necessary. Therefore the Stoddard-Daytons withdrew from the contest and the two Pierce cars are now traveling over the specified route to see which of the two shall possess the cup. Williams is a New Yorker and Rettling comes from Buffalo. Neither one is willing to side-step for the other, hence the battle. Secretary Lewis of the A. A. A. touring committee is traveling along as master of ceremonies, and Teddy Day and Arthur Krumpf are both enjoying the trip, they driving the touring cars with which they established clean scores on the Glidden tour.

Notes of the Harness Horses

Millard Drinkwater has been a mile in 2:10 with the green pacing gelding Bosun, by Alkaline (2:14¼), out of Castanea, the dam of Cochato (2:11½).

Minnie Higginson, a two-year-old filly by the Ringen stallion, Major Higginson, out of Minuet (2:13¾), by Strathmore, worked in 2:25 over the Terre Haute track.

George W. Leavitt is receiving letters every day from owners whose mares have foaled to Cochato. They are nearly all the best foals that the owners have ever seen.

Horace Chenery's stallion John Ward (2.05¾), won his first victory at the Fort Wayne track last Wednesday. The son of Ringen won in straight heats, the fastest of which was 2:11½.

The three-year-old filly Little Sweetheart, by Moko, out of Lev, by Robert McGregor, which sold for [illegible] at auction the Spring she was two years old, is reported to be working nicely at the Poughkeepsie track.

They say that the bay colt Springer Todd, by Todd (2:14¾), in Mike Bowerman's stable, is about the most promising two-year-old trained at the Lexington (Ky.) track this season. He has been a mile in 2:16, with the last quarter in 32½ seconds.

George H. Estabrook's two-year-old filly, Fanny Lawson, by Tregantle (2:09¼), has been a mile in 2:16½, last half in 1:06.

Lon McDonald has beaten 2:20 with the two-year-old colt Gracious Peter, by Peter the Great (2:07¼). He is a futurity candidate.

C. H. Traver's mare, Gracie Kellar (2:09¼), recently foaled a bay filly by Todd (2:14¾), that lived but a few hours.

BOYNTON OUT OF HORSE RACING

MIDDLEBORO, July 30.—Commodore Edward P. Boynton of the Boston Yacht Club, who has a stock farm here, has sold his stable to Charles L. Ricketson of New Bedford. The transfer was recently made, and by it Mr. Ricketson takes Jernegan, 2:21½; Auditor, 2:24½; Preston, an unmarked horse, and Nancy Herr, a promising five-year-old colt.

He has transferred them to his New Bedford stable, but he may not start them in the races this season.

Mr. Ricketson also took the racing appliances and sundries which went with the stable, and Mr. Boynton is permanently out of the horse-racing game.

The Boynton stable was a good one, and has been in existence for several years. Of late it has been in charge of William A. Wilson, late of New Bedford.

Horse racing was a pastime with Mr. Boynton. He conducted many races which he knew would be losing propositions, financially, at his track here, just for his own pleasure.

DETROIT, July 30.—In fine spirits and ready to give the Tigers a hard tussle the Boston Red Sox arrived here to-day for a four-day series.

Cy Young will probably be sent to the rubber in the opening contest and Mullin is carded to twirl for Jennings's men.

The Red Sox cleaned up three out of four in Cleveland and naturally feel elated over their success.

Bungles, mixed with bingles, decided the eleven-inning battle.

One bingle and two bungles got two tallies for the Naps in the opener, and a safety, followed by an error, got their third and last run in the fourth inning.

Two hits and an error got two runs for Boston in the sixth; another error, sacrifice and passed ball got the winning run in the eleventh.

The only tally of the game not aided and abetted by a foozle of some sort was scored by Boston in the third.

If the errors and their affect upon the final result could be lifted out of the score altogether, the Red Sox would have finished on top, 1 to 0, but the game would not have gone into extra innings.

BATTLING NELSON NOW IN WINDY CITY

CHICAGO, July 30.—Battling Nelson, lightweight champion of the world, is in this city. He is the same old Nelson as departed from here about five months ago. The winning of the title has not changed him any. It is Bat's first visit to this part of the country since he earned his crown. He will remain in Chicago one week, dividing the time between Hegewisch and the city.

To-morrow Bat will attend a banquet tendered him at Northwest Hall by the Danish Sharpshooters, of which he is a life member. On Saturday he will start for Pery, N. M., where he will hunt and fish with his old-time friend, Billy Benner.

About August 10 Bat will start West again where he will begin work for his third fight with Gans. Bat has plenty of the stuff that talks and he is all lit up with "rocks," but he has more confidence than anything else. He says Gans can never down him and his words have that ring which carries one through disaster.

"I defeated Gans twice and I will do it again. Then I believe the public will be satisfied that I am his master," said the Dane on his arrival. When asked if he would do any theatrical work while here he said: "I have enough work ahead of me in downing Gans and I care for no footlights right now. When the cooler weather comes, I will be dancing behind the lights and telling all that the public cares to know. It's rest I want now.

"I had no trouble in downing Gans. I knew I could win and I went after him to do the job. It is true that for ten rounds he outboxed me. He can do that for twenty rounds, but he never hurt me. I could feel his punches growing weaker and as they did my strength grew. I sent rippers into his stomach and I could hear him wince with pain. That was my cue and I went after him until he fell a beaten man. He will never regain the title."

Nelson was welcomed at the train by a crowd of his admirers and he will be kept busy receiving congratulations for his victory. He was the centre of attraction yesterday at Omaha, where he stopped off.

Nelson will have lots of backing when he enters the ring with Gans again. His friends believe he has regained his old stamina and most Chicagoans are firm in their conviction that he is practically unbeatable now.

A great many entertainments are being planned in the Dane's honor while he is here, but it is likely he will steer clear of most of them, as he needs the rest and has come home to get it.

WANT GAMES SATURDAY.

The Beacons of Brighton would like to arrange a game for Saturday, on their own grounds, with any 16-17-year-old team. Half fares given. John Needham, No. 164 North Beacon street, Brighton.

Owing to a cancellation, the strong Dupont A. C. of Charlestown is without a game for Saturday, August 1. Would like to play any fast eighteen-nineteen-year-old team away from home. Telephone Charlestown 577-4.

SCULLER SCHOLES LOSES.

HENLEY, July 30.—Scholes, the Canadian sculler, was beaten by Von Gaza of Germany by a length and a half in the Olympic regatta. In the eight-oared competition Canada won one heat. This was when the Argonauts defeated the Norwegian Rowing Association by a length in the final heat.

WADDELL EQUALS RECORD.

ST. LOUIS, July 30.—Rube Waddell fanned sixteen Philadelphia players, equalling the American League strike-out record, beating his former teammates 5 to 4.

WHO WAS YOUR FAMILY HEAD BACK IN 1790?

Bay State Citizen Can Soon Find Out Through Labor Department.

SOME BIG CHANGES TODAY

The Massachusetts citizen will soon be able to know who was the head of his family in the good old days of 1790, providing his family goes back that far.

The Department of Commerce and Labor has just issued from Washington a circular announcing that, by grace of an extra Congressional appropriation, the work of compiling the heads of American families in that early day is being continued, and that the families of Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and North and South Carolina have been compiled. The compilation is now in press, and will soon be issued.

This information relates solely to the families existing in 1790. Latter-day families, who's heads "came over" subsequent to that time, are not included.

Nor does the government censor undertake to tell who is the head of any family to-day. It is said that not all the official wisdom in Washington would ever be able to settle that question in some families.

In many families, however, there is no need of government research to indicate the head of the family. If the censor, making his rounds to-day, should be met at the door by a heavy-jawed, determined-looking woman with a deep, bass voice, he could make up his mind that he needn't search farther for the head of that family.

And, if an undersized and peevish looking man, with his trousers frayed around the bottom of the legs and a dish-towel in his hand, answered the bell, the censor would be cruel to ask him if he was the head of the family or the head of anything.

The reports about the heads of Massachusetts families is expected to be interesting and entertaining, but it is said, in this connection, that the heads of many Bay State families to-day are not worrying about who was responsible for the rent and meat bills 120 or so years ago.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN BOSTON, JULY 30, 1908

THE INDEPENDENCE PARTY'S PLATFORM

It Makes Specific Declarations on the Questions of Direct Nominations, Injunctions, Child and Orient Labor and Oriental Immigration.

Following is the platform of the Independence party adopted at the Chicago convention:

"WE, the Independent American citizens, representing the Independence party in forty-four States and two Territories, have met in national convention to nominate, absolutely independent of all other political parties, candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States.

"Our action is based upon a determination to wrest the conduct of public affairs from the hands of selfish interests, political tricksters and corrupt bosses, and make the government, as the founders intended, an agency for the common good.

"At a period of unexampled national prosperity and promise a staggering blow was dealt to legitimate business by the unmolested practice of stock watering and dishonest financiering. Multitudes of defenceless investors, thousands of honest business men and an army of idle workingmen are paying the penalty.

"Year by year, fostered by wasteful and reckless governmental extravagance, by the manipulation of trusts and by a privilege creating tariff, the cost of living mounts higher and higher. Day by day the control of the government drifts further away from the people and more firmly into the grip of machine politicians and party bosses.

"The Republican and Democratic parties are not only responsible for these conditions, but are committed to their indefinite continuance. Prodigal of promises, they are so barren of performance that to a new party of independent voters the country must look for the establishment of a new policy and a return to a genuine popular government.

TO RESTORE NATION'S PRINCIPLES

"Our object is not to introduce violent innovations or startling new theories. We of the Independence party look back, as Lincoln did, to the Declaration of Independence as the fountain head of all political inspiration.

"It is not our purpose to attempt to revolutionize the American system of government, but to restore the action of the government to the principles of Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln.

"It is not our purpose, either, to effect a radical change in the American system of government, but to conserve for the citizens of the United States their privileges and liberties won for them by the founders of this government, and to perpetuate the principles and policies upon which the nation's greatness has been built.

"The Independence party is, therefore, a conservative force in American politics, devoted to the preservation of American liberty and independence and to honesty in elections, to opportunity in business and to equality before the law. Those who believe in the Independence party and work with it are convinced that a genuine democracy should exist, that a true republican form of government should continue, that the power of government should rest with the majority of the people, and that the government should be conducted for the benefit of the whole citizenship rather than for the special advantages of any particular class.

FOR DIRECT NOMINATIONS

"As of first importance in order to restore the power of government to the people, to make their will supreme in the primaries, in the elections and in the control of public officials after they have been elected, we declare for direct nominations, the initiative and referendum and the right to recall.

"It is idle to cry out against the evil of bossism while we perpetuate a system under which the boss is inevitable. The destruction of an individual boss is of little value.

"The people in their politics must establish a system which will eliminate not only an objectionable boss, but the system of bossism.

"Representative government is made a mockery by the system of modern party conventions dominated by bosses and controlled by cliques.

"We demand the natural remedy of direct nominations by which the people not only elect, but, which is far more important, select their representatives.

"We believe in the principles of initiative and referendum. We particularly demand that no franchise grab go into operation until terms and conditions have been approved by popular vote in the locality interested.

"We demand for the people the right to recall public officials in the public service. The power to make public officials resides in the people, and in them also should reside the power to make and remove from office any official who demonstrates his unfitness or betrays the public trust.

MONEY IN CAMPAIGNS

"Of next importance in destroying the power of selfish special interests and the corrupt political bosses whom they control is to wrest from their hands their main weapon, the corruption fund. We demand severe and effective legislation against all forms of corrupt practices at elections and advocate prohibiting the use of any money at elections except for meetings, literature and the necessary traveling expenses of candidates. Bidding for votes, the Republican and Democratic candidates are making an outcry about publicity of contributions, although the Republican and Democratic parties have for years consistently blocked every effort to pass a corrupt practices act. Publicity of contributions is desirable and should be required, but the main matter of importance is the use to which contributions are put.

"We believe that the dishonest use of money in the past, whether contributed by individuals or by corporations, has been chiefly responsible for the corruption which has undermined our system of popular government.

"We demand honest conduct of public officers and businesslike, economical administration of public affairs, and we condemn the gross extravagance of the Federal administration and its appalling annual increase in appropriations. Unnecessary appropriations mean unnecessary taxes, and unnecessary taxes, whether direct or indirect, are paid by the people and add to the increasing cost of living.

"We condemn the evil of overcapitalization. Modern industrial conditions make the corporation and stock company a necessity, but overcapitalization in corporations is as harmful and criminal as is personal dishonesty in an individual. Compelling the payment of dividends upon great sums that have never been invested, upon masses of watered stock not justified by the property and overcapitalization prevent the better wages, the better public service and the lower cost that should result from American inventive genius and that wide organization which is replacing costly individual competition. The collapse of dishonestly inflated enterprises robs investors, closes banks, destroys confidence and engenders panics.

LABOR PLANK BUNCOMBE

"The Independence party advocates as a primary necessity for sounder business conditions and improved public service the enactment of laws, State and national, to prevent watering of stock, dishonest issues of bonds and other forms of corporate frauds.

"We denounce the so-called labor planks of the Republican and Democratic platforms as political buncombe and contemptible clap-trap unworthy of national parties claiming to be serious and sincere.

"The Republican declaration that 'no injunction or temporary restraining order should be issued without notice, except where irreparable injury would result from delay,' is empty verbiage, for a showing of irreparable injury can always be made and is always made in ex parte affidavits.

"The Democratic declaration that 'injunctions should not be issued in any case in which injunctions would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved' is meaningless and worthless.

"Such insincere and meaningless declarations place a low estimate upon the intelligence of the average American workingman and exhibit either ignorance of or indifference to the real interests of labor.

"The Independence party condemns the arbitrary use of the writ of injunction and contempt proceedings as a violation of the fundamental American right of trial by jury.

DEMANDS JURY TRIAL

"From the foundation of our Government down to 1872 the Federal Judiciary act prohibited the issue of any injunction without reasonable notice until after a hearing. We assert that in all actions growing out of a dispute between employers and employes concerning terms or conditions of employment no injunction should issue until after a trial upon the merits, that such trial should be had before a jury, and that in no case of alleged contempt should any person be deprived of liberty without a trial by jury.

"The Independence party believes that the distribution of wealth is as important as the creation of wealth, and indorses those organizations among farmers and others which tend to bring about a just distribution of wealth through good wages for workers and good prices for farmers and which protect the employer and the consumer through equality of price for labor and for product.

"We indorse the eight-hour day, favor its application to all government employes and demand the enactment of laws requiring that all work done for the government, whether Federal or State, and whether done directly or indirectly through contractors or sub-contractors, shall be done on an eight-hour basis.

"We offer the enactment of a law condemning as illegal any combination or conspiracy to blacklist employes.

"We demand protection for workmen through enforced use of standard safety appliances and provision of hygienic conditions in the operation of factories, railways, mills, mines and all industrial undertakings.

AGAINST CHILD LABOR

"We advocate State and Federal inspection of railways to secure a greater safety for railway employes and for the traveling public.

"We call for the enactment of stringent laws fixing employers' liabilities and a rigid prohibition of child labor through co-operation between the State governments and the national government.

"We condemn the manufacture and sale of prison-made goods in the open market in competition with free-labor manufactured goods. We demand that convicts be employed directly by the different States in the manufacture of products for use in State institutions, and in making good roads, and in no case shall convicts be hired out to contractors or sub-contractors.

"We favor the creation of a Department of Labor, including mines and mining, the head of which shall be a member of the President's Cabinet.

"The great abuses of grain inspection, by which the producers are plundered, demand immediate and vigorous correction. To that end we favor Federal inspection under a strict Civil Service law.

"We declare that the right to issue money is inherent in the government and demand that any further necessary issue of currency shall be made by the government and shall be full legal tender for all debts, public and private.

FOR TARIFF REVISION

"We demand a revision of the tariff, not by the friends of the tariff, but by the friends of the people, and declare for a gradual reduction of tariff duties with just consideration for the rights of the consuming public and of established industry. There should be no protection for oppressive trusts which sell cheaply abroad and take advantage of the tariff at home to crush competition, raise prices, control production and limit work and wages.

"The railroads must be kept open to all upon exactly equal terms. Every form of rebate and discrimination and railroad rates is a crime against business and must be stamped out. We demand adequate railroad facilities and advocate a bill empowering shippers in time of need to compel railroads to provide sufficient cars for freight and passenger traffic and other railroad facilities through summary appeal to the courts.

"We favor the creation of an Interstate Commerce Court, whose sole function it shall be to review speedily and enforce summarily the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission should have the power to initiate investigation into the reasonableness of rates and practices, and no increase in rates should be put into effect until opportunity for such investigation is afforded. The Interstate Commerce Commission should proceed at once with a physical valuation of railroads engaged in interstate commerce.

URGES STRONG ANTI-TRUST LAW

"We denounce all combinations for restraint of trade and for the establishment of monopoly in all products of labor, and declare that such combinations are not combinations for production, but for extortion, and that activity in this direction is not industry, but robbery.

"In case of infractions of the anti-trust law or Interstate Commerce act we believe in the enforcement of a prison penalty against the guilty and responsible individuals controlling the management of the offending corporations, rather than a fine imposed upon stockholders.

"We advocate the extension of the principle of public ownership for public utilities, including railroads, as rapidly as municipal, State or national government shall demonstrate ability to conduct public utilities for the public benefit. We favor specifically government ownership of the telegraphs, such as prevails in every other civilized country in the world, and demand as an immediate measure that the government shall purchase and operate the telegraphs in connection with the postal service.

PARCELS POST SYSTEM

"The parcels post system should be rapidly and widely extended, and government postal savings banks should be established where people's deposits will be secure, the money to be loaned to the people in the locality of the several banks and at a rate of interest to be fixed by the government.

"We favor the immediate development of a national system of good roads connecting all States and national aid to States in the construction and maintenance of post roads.

"We favor a court review of the censorship and arbitrary rulings of the Postoffice Department.

"We advocate such legislation, both State and national, as will suppress the bucket shop and prohibit the fictitious selling of farm products for future delivery.

"We favor the creation of a Department of Public Health, to be presided over by a member of the medical profession, this department to exercise authority over matters of public health, hygiene and sanitation which come properly within the jurisdiction of the national government and do not interfere with the rights of States or municipalities.

OPPOSES ASIATIC IMMIGRATION

"We oppose Asiatic immigration, which does not amalgamate with our population, creates race issues and un-American conditions and which reduces wages and tends to lower the high standard of living and the high standard of morality which American civilization has established. We demand the passage of an exclusion act which shall protect American workingmen from competition with Asiatic cheap labor and which shall protect American civilization from the contamination of Asiatic conditions.

"The Independence party declares for peace and against aggression, and will promote the movement for the settlement of international disputes by arbitration.

"We believe, however, that a small navy is poor economy, and that a strong navy is the best protection in time of war and the best preventive of war. We, therefore, favor the speedy building of a navy sufficiently strong to protect at the same time both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States.

"We favor the development of the merchant marine by the building and operating of such lines of ships as may be necessary by the government.

"We rejoice in the adoption by both the Democratic and Republican platforms of the demand of the Independence party for the improved national waterways and the Mississippi inland deep waterways project, to complete a ship canal from the Gulf to the Great Lakes. We favor the extension of this system to the tributaries of the Mississippi, by means of which thirty States shall be served and twenty thousand miles added to the coast line of the United States.

"The reclamation of arid lands should be continued, and the irrigation commission now contemplated by the government extended and steps taken for the conservation of the country's natural resources, which should be guarded not only against devastation and waste, but against falling into the control of monopoly.

PROTECTION OF PUBLIC LANDS

"The abuses growing out of the administration of our forest preserves must be corrected, and provision should be made for free grazing from public lands outside of forest or other reservation. In behalf of the people residing in arid portions of our Western States we protest vigorously against the policy of the Federal government in selling the exclusive use of water and electric powers derived from public works to private corporations, thus creating a monopoly and subjecting citizens living in these sections to exorbitant charges for light and power and diverting enterprises originally started for public benefit into channels for corporate greed and oppression, and we demand that no more exclusive contracts be made.

"American citizens abroad, whether native born or naturalized, and of whatever race or creed, must be secured in the enforcement of all rights and privileges under our treaties, and wherever such rights are withheld by any country on the ground of race or religious faith, steps should be taken to secure the removal of such unjust discrimination.

POPULAR ELECTION PLANK

"We advocate the popular election of United States Senators and of judges, both State and Federal, and favor a graduated income tax and any constitutional amendments necessary to these ends.

"Equality and opportunity, the largest measure of individual liberty consistent with equal rights, the overthrow of the rule of special interest and the restoration of government by the majority, exercised for the benefit of the whole community—these are the purposes to which the Independence party is pledged, and we invite the co-operation of all patriotic and all progressive citizens, irrespective of party, who are in sympathy with these principles and in favor of their practical enforcement."
